

'We're not in drainage business,' IDOT tells meeting

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

"We are not in the drainage business, per se," Navin Rupani, hydraulics engineer with the Illinois Department of Transportation, warned the sewers and drainage committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon.

The committee invited representatives of IDOT and of the U.S. Corps of Engineers to study possible areas of cooperation between the two departments in utilizing the proposed new Interstate 270 link along the eastern edge of the Quad-City area to help improve area drainage.

Corps of Engineers officials Richard Astrack and Ron Diekmann of St. Louis, said they have been working closely with IDOT in planning the Hillside Drainage project, which stretches from the Bluffs near Collinsville to the Mississippi River.

Priorities were stressed in planning by Astrack, who said IDOT had to plan the new interstate around some Corps drainage plans and the Corps will have to change some of its plans which interfere with the interstate highway plans already adopted by Congress. The plan filed first has the priority over subsequent plans, he explained.

Rupani said drainage planners

State engineer's response to drainage problems in building Route 270 link should not expect federal officials to build extra holding ponds or drainage facilities along the new interstate highway link. "Drainage ponds are hard to justify. Some run into the millions (of dollars). That (drainage) is considered a local problem. If we can justify it, it will be incorporated in our plans," he explained.

Church said IDOT currently is negotiating with two consulting firms to prepare the final plans for the new I-270 link. Those negotiations should be completed within six weeks and their report, including anticipated drainage problems, can be expected by late 1981. He said it is doubtful the plans can be completed, however, by October.

He said efforts will be made for the consultants to be in touch with local officials, farmers, civic groups and others during the planning process, so the final plan is acceptable to the largest possible number of local people. Rupani agreed, saying, "It is an advantage to be in touch with local people and officials. Now is the time when we are starting to incorporate these things in the plan."

Walter "Shang" Greathouse, president of the Metro-East Sanitary District's board of commissioners, objected that there seems to be a great deal of communication between IDOT and the Corps, while the sanitary district is "always to last to know" what is happening.

"They come into us with permits and say, 'Here, sign these.' We don't have the time to investigate them thoroughly.

In the past, we just signed them and then, years later, some farmer would jump all over us and say, 'You just inundated my property.' Now, we turn these requests over to our engineers, Hurst and Roche, who are competent, qualified engineers, and we take their advice, but that takes time," Greathouse said.

Rupani said that he appreciates dealing with qualified consulting firms, finding it easier to resolve problems when dealing with experts than when

GC seats new aldermen

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

The Granite City Council took on "a new look" Tuesday night as five new aldermen were seated, along with two re-elected aldermen.

Welcomed to the council floor were new aldermen Casmer Skubish of the First Ward, Carl Kittel of the Third Ward, Sharon Perjak of the Fourth Ward, Jake Varadian of the Fifth Ward and Stephen Salitch of the Sixth Ward. Re-elected aldermen who began their new four-year terms were Fred "Pat" Schuman in the Second Ward and Paul Ray Bowler in the Seventh Ward.

Also sworn in for new terms at the meeting were Mayor Paul Schuler, City Treasurer Nick Petrillo, Granite City Township Supervisor Nelson Hagauer and Township Assessor Von Dee Cruse. All were re-elected.

City Clerk Robert W. Stevens, who also was re-elected, explained that he had been sworn in last week by Chief Circuit Judge Horace Calvo so Stevens could give the oath of office to the other city officials.

Hagauer told the approximately 40 persons in the audience that he appreciated their support and "the continued support with the new (city) council. We have achieved many accomplishments through the cooperation of Mayor Schuler and the town board (the city council also sits as the town board). Communication and cooperation are the best things we can have on the town board and I hope that is what we can continue to have."

Cruse was sworn in next and said, "I hope in the next four years, I can continue to do my job as uniformly and fairly as possible."

The outgoing aldermen spoke next. First Ward Alderman Charles Douglas said, "I enjoyed working with all you gentlemen. We have had differences of opinion, but I wish everybody well."

Douglas said he lost his seat in a "democratic process and the greatest system in the world. This is not the only thing you'll see about Charlie Douglas," he said, pledging to continue his work against air pollution in the city.

Third Ward Alderman Roy Poulos, who did not seek re-election, said it has been a privilege to serve as an alderman the last 16 years and was thankful for the cooperation he has received over the years by all the city department heads.

"Mayor Schuler is going to have a big majority of support on this council. More than any mayor since I have been on the council," Poulos said, predicting four years of progress ahead.

Fifth Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey, who lost his bid for re-election, wished his successor, Varadian, "all the benefits and pleasures of being the Fifth Ward alderman." Bailey said he and Varadian have worked together, despite differences, "for the good of the city and the ward," and would continue to do so.

Sixth Ward Alderman Earl Baker, who did not seek re-election, said simply, "It has been an honor, privilege and a pleasure. I appreciate all the support over the last eight years."

Alderman Glen Sprankle of the Fourth Ward, who was defeated in his bid for re-election by Sharon Perjak, was absent.

The new aldermen to the council then were invited to speak. Skubish thanked

Granite City's 1980 air quality best in five years

Continuing efforts to curb air pollution in Granite City are working and the air quality here during 1980 was the best it has been in five years, according to the annual report of the Granite City Air Pollution Control Department, submitted to the Granite City Council Tuesday night.

According to Paula Case, director of that department, "Total suspended particulates—dust and dirt—showed marked improvement at all sites, with substantial reductions at two monitoring locations." She credited the installation of major pollution control devices at several industries, some financed by city-backed industrial revenue bonds, for much of the improvement.

"The 1980 levels indicated the best air quality for total suspended particulates since 1975 in Granite City, as well as the best air quality ever recorded at the Norfolk & Western Railroad site south of Granite City Steel, at Frohardt Street, 2000 Johnson Road, and at the East 23rd Street and Nameoki Road site."

She also reported reductions in sulfur dioxide and carbon monoxide levels at all sites, with no violations of the state maximum levels throughout the year. Lead levels improved during 1980 with only one violation of state standards, which occurred in the first quarter of the year, according to Mrs. Case's report. "It is projected that Granite City will be in compliance with the lead standard from now on, as evidenced by declining lead levels since early 1980," she added.

"Ozone continues to be a problem, resulting from excessive automobile emissions during the warm weather periods. The 1980 projections indicate that Granite City will have exceeded the standard during the summer months, due to the southwesterly winds which occur during that season, bringing ozone-forming pollutants from the city of St. Louis," Mrs. Case explained.

Figures included with the report showed a 24 percent decline in suspended particulates at the Norfolk and Western Railroad tracks from 1979 to 1980, and a 21 percent decline at 2001 E. 20th Street. At the railroad tracks, the micrograms per cubic meter averaged 126 last year, compared to 165 in the previous year, and the figure at 2001 E. 20th Street last year was 170, down from 215 in 1979.

Less dramatic improvements were shown at the city's six other measuring stations, but all showed decreases in particulate levels between four and nine percent.

Mrs. Case said more specific studies are being done to isolate the reasons for Area clean-up drive Saturday; 1,300 scouts to aid in pickup

By LISA LUTZ
of the Press-Record

The Community Pride Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce has declared April 25 "Stash the Trash Youth Day" and 1,300 boy and girl scouts have volunteered for this massive clean-up effort.

Clean-up week is Saturday, April 25, through May 1. A five day clean-up, next Monday through Friday, will focus on alleys, garages, basements, industrial areas and city and state roads and intersections.

Street superintendents of the participating cities have agreed to make city and state trucks available for trash collections.

In addition, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stogschild, who represent REACT, will use CB Channel 3 as a base station to handle any emergencies which may arise. Parents of the scouts who wish to assist may use Channel 3 for such communications.

"Donald's Restaurant is another source of this effort. Jim Steele and Dave Eads of McDonald's have pledged 6,000 trash bags for the scouts to use.

McDonald's also is going to provide "fries certificates" for the scouts. Pepsi-Cola will donate soft drinks during this project and has supplied four banners hanging over the streets, calling attention to the dates of the clean-up. Granite City Canvas Co. also donated three signs.

Jim Walla and Ron Ross of SCA Services said that company will be working 24 hours a day with dumpsters to haul heavy debris. No chemicals, paint, gasoline, tree stumps or vehicle bodies will be collected.

The participating scouts will meet at their designated areas at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. They will walk through different areas and pick up trash. These volunteers will receive merit patches for their services.

The scouts are reminded to be aware of safety during this time. The Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce is asking the scouts to wear bright colors, stay out of the streets and remain in groups. REACT teams will be on hand with red streamers, REACT signs and flashers along the routes.

This is an opportunity for Quad-City area residents to discard old appliances and broken items which may be collecting in their yards or basements, presenting potential safety hazards.

Residents may stack bagged trash and larger items in the alleys at the rear of homes. They then may call their appropriate street departments when the debris is ready to be hauled.

Residents whose homes do not have alleys may stack items between the streets and sidewalks. Caution should be used to keep trash from falling or hanging in the streets, where it could present a traffic hazard.

The numbers to arrange pickups of large items may be called and collection will follow as soon as possible. Granite City residents should call 452-6222. Madison residents may call 876-9889, the number for Venice residents is 877-0520, in Nameoki Township, 931-1290, and Chouteau Township residents should call 931-0323.

Chamber of Commerce members are hopeful that Quad-City area residents will cooperate in this effort to beautify the area.

Madison man killed

Ted R. Smith, 79, of 701 Madison Ave., Madison, was fatally injured at 12:27 p.m. Tuesday, April 21, 1981, when he was struck by a tractor-trailer truck at Broadway and Market Street, Venice.

Mr. Smith would have observed his 80th birthday today.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner William Sternberg at 12:40 p.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Smith was dragged some distance by the truck, after being struck, police said.

David B. Shelly, 33, of Mulberry Grove, Ill., was driving the truck, a 1979 Freightliner owned by the Kreider Trucking Service, 1600 Collinsville Ave., Madison.

Shelly told officers he had halted his vehicle at a stop sign on the southeast side of the Market and Broadway intersection and was waiting for another truck head east to go by.

As he started to make the turn onto Broadway, Shelly heard horns blowing and people shouting and, looking back in his mirror, he saw a man lying in the road, he told police.

The trucker said he did not see the elderly man when pulling out from the stop sign.

Smith may have resided in Madison for some years, it is believed, but the precise number is not known. He was born in Mill Spring, Mo., and previously had lived in St. Louis.

He was a retired laborer and a veteran of service in the U.S. Army in World War II.

Among the survivors are a brother, Charlie Smith of St. Louis; a sister, Mrs. Virgie Sanders of Chesterfield, Mo.; and several nephews.

Services will be held Friday, April 24, at the Gish-Bowles and Coder Funeral Home in Piedmont, Mo. Burial will be in Carson Hill Cemetery, near Piedmont.

Arrangements are being handled here by Davis Funeral Home, 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard.

Social Security review

Many people receiving Social Security payments will have their cases re-examined in the near future to make sure they continue to be eligible for benefits, Oliver M. Holmes, Social Security district manager in East St. Louis, reports.

Social Security is required to review most disability cases at least once every three years starting in 1982 because of the 1980 disability amendments. The reviews are conducted to determine if a person is still disabled, Holmes said.

As an important first step in making the required reviews, Social Security is significantly increasing the number of continuing disability investigations it makes.

About 350,000 cases will be reviewed during the remainder of this fiscal year. Next year, over 500,000 cases will be reviewed.

The initial cases to be reviewed will be selected based on studies which show those cases most likely to result in recovery, Holmes said.

These first investigations will provide more data which should indicate other types of cases that should be reviewed soon.

Social Security disability benefits can only be made to people who have a severe physical or mental impairment expected to prevent them from working for at least 12 months or more or to result in death.

People found no longer disabled during the case reviews will have the opportunity to appeal the decision, Holmes said.

More information about Social Security disability requirements can be obtained at the East St. Louis Social Security office, 650 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis. The telephone number is Enterprise 1-355 for toll-free service.

Man gets minor cuts in attack

William Garra, 2804 Palmer Ave., reported a man accused him of wearing his shirt and began fighting with him and a friend, Steve Griffin of Granite City, in the parking area at the Steelworker's Hall, E. 25th and August streets, at 10:05 p.m. Saturday.

Garra said his assailant pulled on the shirt and pushed him around, then reached in his pocket and took out an object which cut Garra on the left forearm. The man also punched Griffin in the mouth, injuring his lips.

Police said Garra sustained three slight cuts, about two inches long, to the inside of the left arm.

County wants decertification election

Madison County employees must hold two elections if they wish to be represented by Teamsters Local 525, rather than the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 799, Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Marshall Smith decided during a meeting with representatives of both unions and of the county board's negotiating committee yesterday afternoon.

The decision led Bill Brandt of Granite City, attorney for the teamsters, to conclude, "That's totally insane. None of this makes any sense."

Smith's latest stand, basically, is that there must first be a decertification election of county employees to end any alliance with AFSCME before there is an election on whether or not to be represented by the Teamsters.

Brandt disagreed with the stand, saying the Teamsters have obtained pledge cards from 151 county employees, which is enough to force an election to determine which union should represent approximately 400 county employees.

Many of those employees now are represented by AFSCME. After efforts by the Teamsters last year to overthrow AFSCME resulted in a stalemate, the two unions reached agreement to divide membership according to county departments. The county board, however, refused to recognize two unions, saying it would negotiate with only one union.

The Teamsters now have complied with all legal requirements to force an election to determine which union that will be, according to Brandt.

"For Zeke Smith to arbitrarily take the position to have a decertification election just doesn't make any sense," Brandt contended.

He said the Teamsters now will make a final appeal to the county board, "and if that doesn't work, we'll have to file suit," Brandt said.

He objected to a previous news article which said the Teamsters had attempted to raid AFSCME last year, saying that the union, at that time, had only attempted to sign up persons not represented by any union.

"The term 'raid' is too strong and is inaccurate," he said.

Unidentified man killed on I-270

The Illinois State Police have been unable to identify the body of a young man who was fatally injured when he was struck by a truck on the Interstate 270 bridge over the Mississippi River at 9:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Troopers said they believe the young man had been a pedestrian or hitchhiker.

The eastbound frozen food truck of Denise Ferrell, 29, Miller, Mo., was slowing for the pedestrian when it was struck from behind by a boat storage firm's truck, driven by Leonard Fuller, 51, Wood River. The impact pushed the front truck over the pedestrian and into a guardrail.

Both Ferrell and Fuller were injured and Fuller was taken to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

The accident occurred in Madison County, one eighth of a mile east of the state line.

Troopers declined today to provide a description of the man killed in the mishap.

Missionary guests at Niedringhaus

Sunday evening the Niedringhaus United Methodist Church will host the Ted Fitzgerald family who have been serving as missionaries in New Guinea. The service will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a dinner, song singing and a program presented by the guests.

Ted and Jerry Fitzgerald have been missionaries to the Hamatai tribe in Papua, New Guinea, 20 and 27 years respectively. Papua comprises the Eastern half of the island of New Guinea and the nearby islands of Manus, New Hanover, New Ireland, New Britain, Bougainville and the Trobriand Islands.

The religion of the Hamatai is animism, worshipping the smoked bodies of their dead and living in fear of sorcery and in hope of white magic curing their diseases.

In order to bring the gospel to the Hamatai, it has been necessary for Ted and Jerry to help put their language into writing, to prepare literacy books and teach them to read and write their own language. They have also translated the New Testament into Hamatai and have over the years started churches and schools where trained Hamatai Christians continue with the religious and educational training of their people.

The missionaries have assisted the people to improve their standard of living by helping them understand and utilize government sponsored programs.

The Fitzgeralds, home on leave, are missionaries with the New Tribes Mission, and interdenominational mission with home offices in Sanford, Fla. Ted, is from Southern Missouri and is a member of the First Baptist Church in Collinsville. He is a brother to Ruth Bunch from Niedringhaus Church. Jerry, originally is from the state of Washington. She is a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Seattle. They have three children, Sandie 18, Sharon 16, and Dan 14. When they return to the mission field this fall, they will bring the gospel to native tribes in New Britain who have yet to learn of the Christian faith, according to the Rev. Louis Frick, host pastor.

speech staff, assisted by Mary Ann Bright, musical director, and Margaret Pennell, choreographer.

Joseph Owens, Granite City High School South hand director, will conduct the pit orchestra.

ROAD FUND BALANCE AT NINE-YEAR LOW

State Comptroller Roland Burris reports that the available balance in the state road fund March 31 was $4 million, the lowest month-end balance since June 30, 1972, when the fund balance dipped to $331,000. With three months remaining in the current fiscal year, Burris said total road fund revenues for the year have reached $885 million, which is $54 million or 6.5 percent higher than the same period last year.

Total expenditures were $908 million, up $64 million or 7.6 percent. Motor vehicle and operators' licenses and other miscellaneous receipts dropped $4 million in the nine-month period and motor fuel tax receipts declined $3 million or 2.7 percent. Transfers into the road fund increased $42 million or 31.1 percent over last year due to legislation which transfers 5.5 percent of the state's sales tax receipts to the road fund and motor fuel tax fund.

Woman faces two charges

Mrs. Victoria A. Tinnin, 29, of 3202 Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged with battery and resisting arrest after she allegedly fought with police in the 2100 block of Lee Avenue at 8:10 p.m. Thursday.

Her contact with officer began two hours earlier when she reported that $65 in food stamps and $50 in cash had been taken from her purse while she was sleeping.

Later, police found her in the 2100 block of Lee Avenue, carrying her baby. Officers alleged she was staggering and her speech was slurred, so they took the baby from her arms to keep it from being dropped.

Mrs. Tinnin allegedly became angry, kicked Patrolman Kenneth Crawford in the thigh and swung fists at other officers. Force was used to subdue and handcuff her, police said.

At the police station, she allegedly refused to get out of a squad car. Force was used to take her into the station and to book her, since she refused to cooperate and allegedly continued to try and fight police. She was lodged.

CORRECTION

The Public Hearing Notice published April 9, 1981 for Granite City Steel's coke oven permit application mistakenly stated the project was subject to the federal Prevention of Significant Deterioration of Air Quality (PSD) regulations. Instead of the PSD rules, the notice should have stated that the project was subject to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's "Rules for Issuance of Permits to New or Modified Air Pollution Sources Affecting Non-attainment Areas."

The references to the Federal Environmental Protection Act should be to the Clean Air Act.

Holy Week programs at orthodox church

Holy week services at the Nativity of the Virgin Mary Orthodox Church, which began on April 19, will continue tonight with Matins and reading of the 12 passion gospels at 7 p.m., according to Father Thomas Succarotte.

On Friday night hours will be at 9 a.m. with a vesperal procession with the shroud at 7 p.m. Matins of Holy Saturday at 7 p.m. and continuous reading of the Book of Acts in conclusion of the Matins service.

Holy Saturday services will include vesperal liturgy of St. Basil the Great at 9 a.m., nocturns at 11:30 p.m. and following at midnight the paschal procession, Matins, and the Great Divine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom of Pascha (Easter). Vespers of Pascha will be at 4 p.m.

Continuing services on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be the paschal liturgy at 9 a.m. each day.

Father Succarotte added, the orthodox church continues to celebrate Easter (Pascha), the resurrection of Christ Jesus on the first Sunday following the vernal equinox after the full moon, after the Jewish Passover. This canonical tradition has continued since the decision of early councils of the One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic Church established this perpetual method of calculation. However, in the west, christians have deviated from this established form of calculation, which explains the difference in the celebration day.

Industrial treatment rates may rise 20% for pretreatment plan

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Establishing a local sewage pretreatment program for industries in Granite City will cost approximately $243,000 and industries will have to pay approximately 20 percent higher treatment bills to pay for it, under plans being completed by Svedrup & Parcel and Associates, Inc., for the city.

The second in a series of three public hearings on the pretreatment plans and costs is to be held Tuesday, May 5, at 6:30 p.m. in the city council chambers in city hall, at which time the public and representatives of industry will be allowed to express their opinions and suggestions.

"This treatment plan has a documented history of industrial problems with oil, grease, sand, heavy metals, phenols and other discharges in the sewage. It is probably the most difficult plant in the world to operate," according to Terrence McMillan, superintendent of the treatment plant. He said that through this program, industries can be prohibited from discharging harmful or hard-to-treat materials into the sewers or can be required to treat the sewage to remove those substances before discharging into the city's sewers.

According to the consulting firm, the first year of the program will require approximately $108,000 for the purchase of needed equipment and $119,000 for salaries, supplies and other costs. The investment will include $75,000 the first year to start a laboratory to test industrial waste discharges. Approximately $48,000 a year should be invested in the laboratory thereafter until a full laboratory is estimated to cost $300,000, has been completed. While the lab is being equipped, the city will have to contract with an outside laboratory for testing, which will cost an estimated $43,500 the first year, according to the study.

The study, itself, will cost $109,000 by the time it is completed. A grant from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency is funding 75 percent of the eligible costs of the grant, but the city still will have to pay $30,000. That amount must also be recovered from the industries who discharge harmful or difficult to treat pollutants into the city sewers.

"Let's put it this way," McMillan commented, "if it wasn't for the industries, we wouldn't need a pretreatment program and we would not be doing this study. It's only fair that they (industries) eventually pay the costs involved." McMillan said he has reviewed the Svedrup & Parcel study and has found some faults which will need to be corrected. For one thing, the study fails to take into consideration transportation for the field inspector. "I am sure we are going to have to add a car to that total," he noted. "Some of the other figures bother me, but I guess we can straighten that out at the public hearing," he added.

Among the major components of the pretreatment program which will be discussed at the hearing are procedures for discharge permit development and compliance, administration of the program, setting up enforcement actions, record keeping, user charge billing and public participation. Plans at this stage call for an initial waste characterization survey, spending five days at each industrial sewer user taking sewage samples and testing for flow, oxygen, suspended solids, oil and grease, pH and other problem-causing substances. Some plants also will be tested for cyanides, phenols and heavy metals.

The inspection will be followed by IEPA required semi-annual surveillance checks of five days per industry to measure discharges and revise discharge permits. Testing results for significant industrial users will be compared monthly with the industries' own tests to check analytical methods and compare measurements.

The city also will be expected to reject approximately one plant per day for a day or two to verify compliance with the ordinance. Complaints, violations or unusual observations at the treatment plant may result in three-day sampling programs at certain industries to check compliance, according to the document. Administration functions will involve reviewing discharge applications, issuing permits and approving construction plans for industrial pretreatment facilities, in addition to inspections of facilities and construction.

Industries violating the conditions of their permits will be notified of non-compliance and failure to adequately satisfy the city's demands will result in water pollution control or court actions.

A user charge system will be established at a later date to fairly divide the costs of operating the city's pretreatment program among the industries, according to the costs involved with treating their individual discharges. Public participation, in addition to the three public hearings, will include comments at each industrial sewer user taking sewage samples and testing for flow, oxygen, suspended solids, oil and grease, pH and other problem-causing substances. Energy audits offered to local governing bodies

Seventeen regional planning agencies are prepared to offer energy audits to local governments, the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources has announced.

In an energy audit, trained personnel examine a building for opportunities to reduce energy use, such as better control of lighting with inexpensive timer switches or the reduction of hot water temperatures.

"Local governments have office buildings, highway maintenance garages, police stations, libraries and other buildings where significant savings in tax money could be achieved through energy conservation," said Frank Beal, director of the Institute.

Governmental units that want to save energy money can request audits directly from a regional planning agency or they may contact INR's Jerry Davis at 217-785-8799 or Commerce and Community Affairs' Jeff Mitchell at 217-785-4200.

WM. HODSHIRE JR.

Hodshire to Texas post

R & M Construction, Inc., an Edwardsville based general contracting firm, as part of its growth plan, has announced the opening of an office in San Antonio, Texas.

Their plan also calls for a southern California branch to be opened within this fiscal year. The San Antonio office is the second phase of a market strategy designed to add more of the Sun Belt to R & M's Midwest market area.

William Hodshire Jr., of Granite City, currently executive vice president of the parent company, has been named president of Kettle River Construction, Inc., a Texas subsidiary, and will have charge of the new San Antonio office.

R & M Construction, Inc. is a commercial and industrial contractor with projects currently underway in Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Tennessee, Alabama, Utah and Texas.

Hodshire said he plans to move soon from Granite City to Texas.

Chief Bridick catches suspect

A neighbor alerted police and an alleged thief was taken into custody by Madison Police Chief Don Bridick about a block from the scene of a burglary at 12:45 p.m. Saturday.

The incident occurred shortly after a neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gudac, 717 Iowa St., Madison, reported seeing a youth about 16 or 17 years old, with long, stringy brown hair and wearing a blue sweatshirt and jeans flee from the residence down an alley.

Responding to the call, Chief Bridick went to the area and saw a youth walking in an alley in the 1500 block, between Sixth and Seventh streets.

The youth, 16, was searched and a .38 caliber revolver allegedly was found in his waistband and some currency, coins and jewelry in his sweatshirt pocket.

He was returned to the scene and was identified as the person seen leaving the residence.

The Gudac house was entered by removing a storm window and breaking the inside window near a rear door. The bedrooms had been ransacked, police said.

HIT-RUN CHARGED

Mark L. Bradson, 25, of 5248 Lakeview Drive, Pontoon Beach, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident after his northbound auto allegedly struck the parked car of Edward Asadorian, 2117 Grand Ave., in front of Asadorian's home last week. A witness said the auto struck the parked car, backed up, hit the parked car a second time and then drove away. Police stopped Bradson's auto a short time later and charged him.

Coalition opposes bills restricting librarians

The nine-member organization of the Illinois Coalition for Public Education has vowed to fight legislation which would eliminate the hold-harmless provisions for librarians in Illinois law concerning the distribution of materials to children.

The twin measures, House Bill 462 and Senate Bill 164, would eliminate the affirmative defense provision in the Criminal Code to a charge of distributing harmful material to a child applicable to libraries which distribute such material for educational or scientific purposes, according to the bills' synopsis.

"What the bills really do is to create undue hardship for educators and librarians," declared Helen Whelan of Chicago, president of the Illinois Parents and Teachers Association (PTA) and coalition spokesperson. "The proposed amendment would affect institutions of higher education and libraries."

"We're concerned because these measures, although not specifically designed to apply to public schools, could apply to school libraries and the materials disseminated in the schools," Whelan added.

Fred Husmann of Springfield, representing the Illinois Education Association-NEA, another coalition member-group, used stronger words, calling the twin bills, "an effort to move toward censorship in the schools."

Husmann explained that libraries provide a wide range of information and services to all people in a community. He emphasized that the library is the only institution that serves the informational, educational, recreational, cultural, social, and political needs of members of the community throughout their lives. "What would be the reaction if the books and materials that you or your family needed were removed from the shelves," he asked.

"The negative aspects of the proposed amendment would tie the hands of school librarians and open the door to the book burners," Husmann indicated. "Our coalition of statewide, educational organizations represents all sectors of public education. Thus, it has no alternative but to oppose any measure which would surely impair the education of Illinois students."

In addition to the IPTA and IEA-NEA, the coalition has enlisted the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB), Illinois Association of School Administrators (IASA), Illinois Principals Association (IPA), Illinois Association of School Business Officials (IASBO), Illinois Federation of Teachers (IFT), Professional Educators of Illinois (PEI) and the Illinois Community Education Association.

"Our coalition wants to enhance educational opportunity in Illinois and we want to protect students, but not at the expense of their education," Whelan concluded. "Librarians are professionally trained, and their judgment and that of school officials should be protection enough against the distribution of pornographic or perverse material."

Directs land reclamation

Sue Massie of Springfield Tuesday was appointed executive director of the Illinois Abandoned Mine Lands Reclamation Council, it was announced by Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Council chairman.

She had served as acting executive director since Feb. 1.

Since joining the Council staff in 1978, the new director served as landscape architect and then supervisor of design and reclamation. Prior to that, she was a partner in Massie, Massie and Associates, a Hamilton, Ill., environmental planning and design consulting firm. She also worked for a private land planning and design firm located in Northbrook and for the Macou County Regional Planning Commission.

Massie, 29, holds a BA degree in landscape architecture from the University of Illinois. The Council works to reclaim and restore to productive use land damaged by mining practices before reclamation laws were enacted.

Trespass to 3 cars charged

Steven W. Reed, 23, of 1344 Nineteenth St., has been charged with three misdemeanor counts of criminal trespass to a motor vehicle for allegedly breaking into three cars in the downtown area of Granite City and removing items one week ago tonight.

The Madison County state's attorney's warrant office refused Monday to issue felony charges against Reed in connection with the incidents.

Albert Mullin, O'Fallon, reported that eight wrenches, the title and registration and a switch were stolen from his car, parked at 1938 near Cleveland Blvd.

Joseph Vaughn, 2586 Washington Ave., had an instant camera, photographs, change and a tape recording missing from his car behind 1255 near Niedringhaus Ave., and Douglas Hupp, 1255 Niedringhaus Ave., discovered that an assortment of hand tools had been taken from his car.

It is alleged that Reed was found in the small park at Niedringhaus Avenue and Cleveland Boulevard and draped several items, including the instant camera and some hand tools. The tape recording was found in his hip pocket, police contend.

Special tax for more deputies?

Taxes from a special service area may be Madison County's best hope for funding police protection in rural areas, the county board has been told.

That police protection, provided by the sheriff's department, is of growing concern to the county board. Sheriff Emil Toftant of Madison recently warned the board that cuts in the federal CETA job program may bring a law enforcement crisis in Madison County this summer.

The county board has refused to replace the CETA employees with new county funds, citing a lack of funds.

Madison County assistant state's attorney Marshall "Zek" Smith suggested that the board consider a special service area, which would be a rural area and would involve rural areas only.

He said 51 percent of the affected residents would have to sign petitions to stop formation of such a district. (Obtaining new taxes by this method is sometimes referred to as a backdoor referendum.)

The county has one special service area for sewers in Namooki, Chouteau and Venice Townships. Residents of the special area pay a tax to finance their sewers.

Persons living in State Park and Eagle Park obtained the signatures of 51 percent of the electorate to defeat creation of special service areas in their communities to finance sewers.

County board member Bill Haine of Alton said he would not want to create a special service area for police protection unless the entities "out there" are willing. He asked that Smith send his suggestion on to Toftant for comment.

Among other proposals to solve the problem of funding rural police protection were contracts with townships (Godfrey Township has such a contract currently with the Madison County sheriff's department) and the use of volunteer police forces.

"We've tried volunteers before," Smith responded to this suggestion, "It worked out horribly. You get too many cowboys in volunteer outfits. Everyone wants a gun, believe me."

James Heil, Alton, said sheriff's throughout Illinois are against another solution — police protection districts — because they want to enjoy political clout and patronage control in rural areas. (Such districts would require a change in current state law.)

Harold "Cotton" Roberts, Alton, said he was unhappy with a radio interview in which a member of the Madison County sheriff's department said the county board was to blame for the lack of manpower in the department.

Air quality

The improvement in the air quality, but preliminary indications point to improved pollution controls at many of the major industries.

At Granite City Steel, city-backed industrial revenue bonds played a major role in financing approximately $44 million in pollution control improvements between 1970 and 1980, including substantial improvements in rebuilding coke ovens, installation of a baghouse to capture fugitive emissions from the sinter plant, and various other improvements at the basic oxygen furnace and other Granite City facilities.

Mrs. Case said similar improvements at other industries is helping the air quality, including the reduction of fugitive emissions from American Steel Foundries and American Colloid.

The near-elimination of open burning throughout the city by industries, businesses and individuals also has helped cut down on pollution, she said. "I've ever wondered whether the air pollution control equipment on modern vehicles is helping. Mrs. Case said the reduced levels of carbon monoxide in the air are evidence of progress in that area. Hydrocarbons from auto exhaust has never presented a problem in Granite City, the city does not monitor for them.

Ozone remains a problem because it tends to form 15 to 20 miles downwind from large urban centers, such as St. Louis, where heavy traffic produces ozone-forming pollutants. In the summer, the prevailing winds bring that pollution from St. Louis into Granite City and Edwardsville.

"That is a problem we don't cause, but we are subjected to, as the result of older cars without pollution controls and autos which have been tampered with. We still are going to have ozone problems, as long as there are such cars in the St. Louis area. It's a problem which will require regional control," Mrs. Case said.

She predicted, "I think we will continue to see improvements in air quality in the next year and a half. Controlled programs at major industries should contribute to a continued decline in the pollution level."

"However, if we have a very dry year, we will have more dust in air. It is a widely-recognized fact that rain and snow help to keep dust levels down. The first quarter of this year is of concern to us, since it has been very dry," she warned.

dealing with political boards. He pledged to try and improve communications with the sanitary district during the planning period.

The news that IDOT does not plan to utilize the new 1,270 lot to improve area drainage does not surprise the Corps, which has never planned to utilize the interstate as a major drainage facility, Astrack and Dieckmann indicated.

They noted the Blue Waters Drain improvements have finally moved from the planning stage and is under construction, which is the first step in the full Hillside Drainage plan.

Asked why Hillside Drainage plans prepared in 1963 by the Southwest Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMARPC) have apparently been scrapped, Astrack said they have been used as a basis for the new plans, but summarized, "In general, anything done before 1969 is worthless, due to the environmental protection movement of the 1970s."

Part of the leg work now required in a house-by-house visual inspection of any properties which could possibly be flooded by any drainage changes, he noted. That work is underway in the American Bottoms, he said.

Satchik also thanked those who supported him in the election and said, "I think I can work well with the city council and Alderman Warfield (co-alderman of the ward), everyone's going to want to move to the Fourth Ward," she predicted.

He said the Corps also is looking at Horseshoe Lake with an eye toward using it for flood control, but there are no specific proposals at this time.

everyone in Granite City for participating in the April 7 election. He said through cooperation, the city has "bountiful hopes of improvement, but we've got to be realistic, too. We can show the people of Granite City that we have one of the finest towns in Illinois," he concluded.

Kittel thanked his supporters and praised his predecessor, "I always thought Ward Three was the best ward in the city. Now I realize that it was through the efforts of Roy Poulos. The city is going to lose a tremendous man. I can't fill his shoes, but I will do the best I can," Kittel said.

Sharon H. Kittel, thanked her supporters and said she has been looking forward to serving on the council. "I expect to put in a good four years and after four years of work with Alderman (Warren) Decatur (co-alderman of the ward), everyone's going to want to move to the Fourth Ward," she predicted.

workers and congratulated all of the newly-elected and re-elected city officials.

Satchik also thanked those who supported him in the election and said, "I think I can work well with the city council and Alderman Warfield (co-alderman of the ward), everyone's going to want to move to the Fourth Ward," she predicted.

A party for all of the city officials, including those leaving the council, was held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall following the meeting.

June 1 final day of school

The Granite City School Board is set for the final day of the 1980-81 school term, for Monday, June 1.

The school calendar indicates final date of June 5, but classes were canceled on only one "snow day" due to the relatively mild winter weather.

Supt. B. J. Davis said, "By state law, we normally must have 176 student attendance days. Due to the fact that the president declared Jan. 20 a day of thanksgiving for the hostages freed in Iran, it was necessary that this be a holiday according to Illinois law."

"The General Assembly has now passed legislation requiring only 175 days of pupil attendance for the 1980-81 year. But even with this reduction, to reach 175 we must continue the term into the first week of June."

The 1981 Memorial Day observance will be on Monday, May 25.

In other business, the board set the next school year for Aug. 25, 1981, to June 4, 1982.

Faculty members will meet on Aug. 24. The first semester will end Jan. 15 and the second semester will begin Jan. 16.

Parent-teacher conferences are planned Nov. 5 and March 25, with the annual county institute March 26. Easter holidays are planned April 5-9, 1982.

The board expelled a GCIS North senior boy following a hearing, citing violations of school rules. The family did not attend.

Board members also conferred Tuesday night with a parent residing in the school district, and conducted an executive session on personnel.

Vocational education one-year and five-year plans were approved.

Questions immobility of senior citizens in GC housing projects

A plea that the Granite City Council attempt to find a way to circumvent the rule prohibiting senior citizens in Kirkpatrick Homes from moving into Anchorage Homes was expressed by defeated First Ward alderman Charles Douglas as his last city council meeting Tuesday night.

"A paring shot," was how Dave Morgan, chairman of the Granite City Housing Authority, described Douglas' last official action on the council before Douglas was replaced by Casmer Skushish as alderman.

Douglas told the council that during his recent campaigning, he heard numerous complaints from senior citizens in Kirkpatrick Homes that they are prohibited from moving into the newer Anchorage Homes, even if they are an available apartment in Anchorage.

"I don't know if the housing authority has a rule or the council has an ordinance prohibiting them from moving, but I would like the city to look into this," Douglas said.

The answer was obtained by the Press-Record with one phone call to Morgan. "It's a HUD rule," Morgan explained, referring to the rules of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, which subsidizes the city's housing authority.

"If it was not for this rule, every day could be moving day in the apartments and that would cause a tremendous expense on the housing authority, because every time a family moves, we have to clean up an apartment for them and clean up the apartment they vacated," Morgan said.

He noted that the Granite City Housing Authority honors the HUD rule, but does make every effort to make senior citizens in Kirkpatrick Homes comfortable.

If, for example, senior citizens in two-floor apartments, become unable to use the stairs, they will be moved, if they wish, into the first available one-floor apartment, according to Morgan.

Morgan contended that Douglas, who was alderman of that ward for four years, should have inquired about the HUD rule, rather than making a public statement about it at the city council meeting. "He made a lot of campaign promises in Kirkpatrick Homes. That was just one of them," Morgan stated.

Triumph of Orthodoxy celebrated in Madison

The Triumph of Orthodoxy, commemorating the procession of the orthodox faithful carrying icons through the streets of Constantinople on the first Sunday of the Great Lent in the year 843 A.D., was celebrated by eight member churches of the Council of Orthodox Churches of the Metropolitan St. Louis Area at the Nativity of the Virgin Mary Orthodox Church, Fifth Street and Ewing Avenue, in Madison.

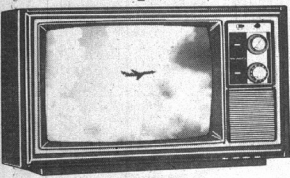

Other churches participating in the celebration were: Assumption Greek Orthodox Church, Sts. Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church, St. John the Divine Serbian Orthodox Church, St. Michael the Archangel Orthodox Church, St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church, St. Thomas the Apostle Orthodox Church and Sts. Cyril and Method Eastern Orthodox Church.

A procession of representative members of each church carrying holy icons, sacred representations of Christ or other religious personages, photo above, exits the doors of the Madison church. The procession circumvented the church, photo at right, then stopped on the steps outside the entrance where the Proclamation of the Synod of Constantinople of 843 A.D. was read in both Greek, its original written language, and in English. The Reverends George Nicosin and Michael Margitich, respectively, read the proclamation. The photo at top right, a special-effect double exposure, shows both the exterior of the Madison church and the interior during the special ceremonies.

School drug sales pattern

An indication of the current drug sales pattern and volume near Granite City High School South was obtained in a police investigation that included the arrest of a 15-year-old boy at State Street and Fehling Road at 7:50 a.m. Wednesday.

The student, charged with possession of cannabis, had purchased 30 cigarettes for $20 from an 18-year-old Madisonian.

He smoked two of the cannabis cigarettes, and sold 13 at $1 each, he had the remaining 15 in a metal container in his coat pocket when arrested.

An 18-year-old is said to sell 20 to 30 cigarettes a day to fellow students; another student, 18, sells cannabis, "speed" and barbiturates.

A 17-year-old sells about 20 cigarettes daily, while another 17-year-old sells 10 to 20.

A student, aged 15, distributes 20 to 30 cigarettes each day, and another 15-year-old sells cannabis and "speed," it was indicated.

The student taken to the police station, and then released to his parents after being charged with possession, said he usually sells about five or six cannabis cigarettes a day in the area of South High and about 20 per day at a pool hall in another city.

There is a natural, good feeling between a child and an elderly adult. Perhaps it can be traced to a similar infatuated perception of life and all those who inhabit it. The child is too young to realize life's burdens and the elderly are too mature to be wrongly affected by them. This common attitude spans the years and forms the bridge of joy. No one is closer to life and its meaning than the young and the mature adult. It is up to those of us in the years in between to recognize this beautiful attitude and treat the elderly with respect.

Such respect is exhibited in the way we treat the elderly while they are with us as well as the way we revere them when they are not. MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES, as part of our professional approach in dealing with the passing of loved ones, offers consideration for the respect and reverence due at such times. From our approach, it is up to those bereaved to our considerations of the service itself, we strive to preserve dignity, respect, concern and empathy for the emotions and thoughts of the moment.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:
Behind the mask of age resides the innocence of a child.

Host dinner for new Chamber members

An orientation dinner for new members of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce was hosted by the Chamber ambassadors committee at the Officers Club on the Granite City Army Installation.

Shirley Adams, chairman of the ambassadors committee, was the host for the evening. Chamber officers in attendance included Drew Karandjeff, president; William Donovan, first vice president; and Dave Knollman, second vice president. Representing the Women's Division of the Chamber was Mrs. Mary Jessee.

The purpose of the dinner, first of its kind in recent years, was to familiarize the new members with the goals and objectives of the Chamber. A brief summary of the Chamber's activities and accomplishments was outlined.

Several of the accomplishments mentioned at the meeting included the passing of a bond issue to build a shelter building and fountains in Wilson Park, assisting in developing the Community Unit School District under which the local school system is still functioning and was instrumental in drafting legislation establishing the port authority.

The Chamber was also credited in the establishment of the Belleville Area College and its cooperation with the Granite City Police Department's Crime Blocker program.

Karandjeff said, in addressing the group of new members, that the Chamber is made up of businesses both large and small which are equally important to us.

He said that it was his belief that not only will the community profit through participation of its membership, but that the membership profits as well.

The Chamber membership is larger than it has ever been during its 41-year history, which now numbers in excess of 770," Karandjeff said.

Karandjeff also reviewed aspects of business development during the dinner-meeting.

Others addressing the gathering included Donovan who reviewed community improvement initiated or in cooperation with the Chamber and Knollman highlighted the public affairs division of the organization.

Mary Jessee outlined the various functions and events sponsored by the Women's Division.

A question and answer period was held after which the new members were asked to fill out a short questionnaire about the Chamber and any comments about the evening's program.

Members of the ambassadors committee served as hosts during the social hour preceding the dinner during which the new members were introduced to each other and to other Chamber members.

The dinner proved to be quite successful as a way to let new members of the Chamber know what the organization is all about and another similar dinner is tentatively being arranged for subsequent members later this year.

Shots are fired into apartment

About 20 pellets were fired through windows into the apartment of Terry Polach, 3808 Kirkpatrick Homes last week. There were no injuries.

A witness heard what sounded like an air rifle shot, followed by breaking glass. He alleged seeing sparks fly as more pellets hit the windows of Polach's apartment. It is believed the pellets were fired from another Kirkpatrick Homes apartment.

WATCHES ARE TAKEN

A $150 man's wristwatch, a $500 woman's diamond watch and a security box containing miscellaneous papers were stolen during a burglary at the home of Maxine Holt, 2404 Illinois Ave., last week. Entry was believed gained through an unlocked window.

Enlightened leadership continuing as Howard Love succeeds George Stinson as National Steel chairman

Quadrants are pleased by the election of Howard M. "Pete" Love as board chairman of National Steel Corporation yesterday in Pittsburgh. He retains the titles of president, held since December 1975, and chief executive officer, held since March 1980.

Congratulations are in order for Chairman Love, who served as Granite City Steel president for four years, 1972 through 1975, and for George A. Stinson, retiring as board chairman but chosen yesterday as chairman of the executive committee. It was under Mr. Stinson's leadership that National Steel acquired Granite City Steel Co. in 1971.

Mr. Love successfully integrated the operations of Granite City Steel and Midwest Steel, located in Portage, Ind., so that their production departments could operate in tandem despite the 300 miles separating them. In addition to these dual presidencies, he served as chairman of National Pipe and Tube Co., a Texas subsidiary that succeeded in entering the field of "oil country" welded tubular products.

Mr. Love, an Air Force veteran and a graduate of Colgate University and the Harvard Business School, held a series of positions of increasing responsibility at the Great Lakes (Detroit area) and Midwest plants before coming here. He is a director of the American Iron and Steel Institute and serves on its executive committee. In 1979 he became the Pennsylvania business representative on the advisory board of the Coalition of Northeastern Governors.

A director of the Pittsburgh Regional Planning Association and Pittsburgh Symphony, he is a trustee of Colgate and the University of Pittsburgh and a member of New York's Metropolitan Opera Association.

His business directorships include Monsanto Co., Gould Inc., Trans World Corp., the parent company of Trans World Airlines, and United Financial Corp., a subsidiary of National Steel.

Mr. Love, his wife, the former Jane Vaughn of Stinson, and their five children reside in the Pittsburgh area and retain fond memories of their stay in this metropolitan area.

Congressional budget alternative would increase the tax burden

To the Editor:

A big flap has developed in Washington between the administration and the Congressional Budget Office (CBO), the official economic forecasting arm of Congress.

The disagreement involves the long-term impact of the Reagan economic recovery program.

The administration says that if its program is passed, then by 1984 we will have much stronger growth, significantly lower unemployment, the inflation rate cut in half and a balanced budget.

Not CBO. It looks at the same program and sees a totally different picture. Only marginally improved growth, unemployment remaining high, inflation remaining high and a budget deficit of $40 billion.

So who's right? Well, obviously we won't know for sure until 1984. Also, it seems safe to suggest that — given their track records — most economic forecasters have good reason to remain modest.

Nevertheless, there is good reason to believe the CBO should remain more modest than anyone else.

CBO's economic forecasts over the past few years have served as the single most important influence governing the conduct of economic policy. Yet, despite this influence, CBO's results have been poor, both in its ability to track actual developments, and in comparison with other major forecasting models, such as Data Resources and Chase Econometrics.

CBO consistently underestimated inflation and overestimated economic growth. Sometimes it could not even predict in which direction the economy was headed in the immediate future.

The reason is quite clear: In making its forecasts, CBO relies on a theory of the economic world which is untrue and, in fact, downright absurd. In CBO's scheme of things, spending is what makes the world go around. Indeed, economic growth is held to depend on more and more spending.

This is why CBO's director, Alice Rivlin, once demanded the Alice in Wonderland that a dollar spent by the government will stimulate the economy more than a dollar of private spending. Why? Apparently, because the taxpayer might save some of his money.

Horror! Little wonder then that for years CBO has recommended increased federal spending in order to achieve stronger growth, lower unemployment and stable inflation. It hasn't quite worked out that way.

This nonstop pump-priming has led only to higher deficits and inflation, higher interest rates — as government absorbed a growing share of loanable funds, thereby "crowding out" private borrowers — and taxation, caused by inflation pushing taxpayers into higher and higher tax brackets.

But CBO remains unphased and unrepentant. In effect, this is what CBO is doing. It says that, despite the tremendous reforms proposed by the new administration — reforms which rest on the historically proven fact that individuals work, save and invest under the greater after-tax rewards — they will all add up to no real change.

The Democrats on the House Budget Committee, led by Chairman Jim Jones of Oklahoma, have just come to CBO's defense and proposed an alternative budget to the president's. They claim their alternative will lead to a balanced federal budget by 1983, one year earlier than the president's plan.

What they do not say is that they expect to balance the budget by raising taxes on the order of $80 billion in fiscal year alone. That's $80 in added increase for every individual filing a return.

South accredited for 75th year

Principal James Dumont of Granite City High School South announced today that the school's accreditation has been extended through the 1980-81 school year following the review and approval of the National Association of the North Central Association's annual meeting. Accreditation is for one year at a time and must be renewed annually.

"Once every seven years, each NCA school must undergo a comprehensive self-study followed by an NCA evaluation team review," Dumont explained. "Our school was last evaluated in 1978."

"In the interim years, a school is accredited on the basis of its report on conditions in the school and on such supplementary information as the Commission on Schools requests."

Our report for 1980-81 assures us of continued accreditation, meaning that the conditions for effective education exist in the school."

A member since 1907, South has always been fully accredited.

The North Central Association is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. It is a voluntary league of over 400 schools and 650 colleges and universities in 19 states, plus Department of Defense

Optimism on finding oil and gas

To the Editor:

The amount of oil and natural gas which will be discovered and produced in the United States in the foreseeable future will be determined more by economic and technological factors than by the size of the nation's resource base.

Of course, there are physical limits to the size of the hydrocarbon deposits in the U.S. and its offshore lands. But the absolute physical size is not the sole element when we talk about our resource base.

The amount of oil and natural gas that we will find and produce in this country depends equally on economic and technological advances.

There is already solid evidence of the dynamism of the recoverable resource base.

One recent estimate of future recoverable oil and natural gas, amounting to 300 billion barrels of oil equivalent, doubles in size when higher prices and improved recovery techniques are assumed.

And even the higher figure does not include future recovery that may be realized from unconventional resources. The year-end forecast of industry drilling rates has been revised sharply upward because of the industry's response to improved economic incentives has been much stronger than any.

Hospital care praised

To the Editor:

I commend the administrators and employees of St. Elizabeth's Medical Center for the marvelous care given my mother, Mrs. Stella Crake, during her recent hospitalization.

She and I feel that she received constant care, good food and kindness, and they could not have done more for her. I think they went overboard.

I would also like to commend Dr. Frank Dioneda for his skill and care.

More than 1,000 Presbyterians in Granite City gathered at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday where special services and program had been arranged in commemoration of the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of that denomination in this city. During the morning program, it was brought out that fifty-six Presbyterians started the faith in this city and after a quarter century there are still 23 charter members actively engaged in the local church.

One of the most interesting features on the evening program was the presentation to the church by Mrs. W. J. Biel of pictures of the last six pastors of the church. In the group of pictures, there was also one likeness of the old Kinder Church, now built into Emerson grade school.

Construction of a $5,010,000 low-water dam on the Mississippi River near Madison's Chain of Rocks bridge was recommended last week in Congress by the Lower Mississippi Valley Division of the Army Corps of Engineers. The dam had been included in the original plans prepared for the Chain of Rocks canal and locks. Purpose of the dam will be to back up water to the required nine-foot depth at Alton locks.

Location of the proposed dam has been set for about 900 feet below the Chain of Rocks bridge. Preliminary plans call for a rock-filled dam across the river, and annual maintenance costs were estimated at $302,500.

The eyes of the steelmaking and financial worlds are on the Quad-Cities and Washington following announcement in Monday's issue that an agreement in principle had been reached for Granite City Steel Co. to be merged into the National Steel Corporation. The two companies are submitting data related to the proposed merger to the U.S. Department of Justice for its review.

The Press-Record noted Monday that, if the federal government gives direct or tacit approval, the boards of directors of the two firms and Granite City Steel's 17,728 shareholders, will be asked to give their ratification.

National's steel operations gain in profits, efficiency

A significant improvement in steel operations profitability for the first quarter of 1981, compared with sharply depressed results in all steel divisions in last year's first quarter, was reported Wednesday by National Steel Corp.

In releasing 1981 first-quarter results at the annual meeting of stockholders held in Pittsburgh, Chairman M. Love, president and chief executive officer, said, "I am pleased to report that our company's strategy for improving efficiency and lowering costs has resulted in a turn-around in our steel operations."

He told stockholders that 1981 first-quarter earnings amounted to $15.7 million, or 55 cents per share, compared with a loss of $10.7 million, or 35 cents per share, in the first quarter of 1980.

There is an additional element that does not appear in any forecast and cannot be identified in terms of economic or technical improvement.

That element is the willingness of people in our industry to assume tremendous risks if the potential rewards of success are commensurate with those risks.

RICHARD M. MORROW
President,
Standard Oil Co.
(Indiana)

Love pointed out that last year's first-quarter earnings also included $9.5 million, or 50 cents per share, from its United Financial Corporation of California subsidiary.

He said that "while UFC's first-quarter 1981 results continued to significantly outpace other savings and loan firms, they were less than half of the amount UFC earned in the first quarter of 1980."

Love continued, "The latest quarter's earnings for the corporation, while below desired levels, primarily reflect the improvement in results from steel operations."

"This is, in large measure, due to the ability of the steel group to operate profitably with blast furnace production scaled back from ten to seven furnaces to match the order book."

Love told the stockholders that all four segments of business — integrated steel operations, fabricating and steel products, aluminum, and the United Financial subsidiary — operated profitably during the quarter.

He added that "the steel business is improving steadily," and that "we have seen a somewhat more strength in the marketplace than anticipated earlier this year."

"We expect this trend to continue improving gradually for the balance of the year."

"Considering this apparent trend," he said, "the groundwork should be in place for a good year in 1982."

Commenting on demand, Love said that bookings for the second quarter are good.

He added that "demand is fairly widespread across our markets."

"As best as we can determine, it's apparently due to an end to the inventory-reduction cycle, during which many steel users took their inventories down lower than necessary to support their production rates."

"I want to emphasize that we see no inventory building by customers now. We are seeing orders being placed which more closely resemble the production of goods — and which are filling in gaps that developed in customer inventories."

"Short lead-time orders have declined significantly, and lead times are now nearly normal."

Love said he is encouraged by the auto market because, "for the first time since the free fall in orders began last year in that industry, estimates for second-quarter car builds have been revised upward."

"The rebate programs for cars did the job they were intended to do, by significantly reducing dealer inventories."

Discussing other markets, Love said that the corporation's business with service centers is strong, as is its participation in the oil country tubular goods market.

He added that shipments of tin mill products were strong during the first quarter, and that "we expect the second quarter to be stronger yet."

Sales and other income for the first quarter of 1981 amounted to $1 billion, compared with $1.2 billion for the 1980 first quarter, which included income from the coal sale.

Excluding the coal sale last year, first-quarter sales for both years are comparable.

Primary steel production in the first quarter of 1981 and 1980 totaled 2.2 million tons. Shipments were 1.9 million net tons for the 1981 first quarter, the same as last year.

Christian Academy of Greater St. Louis and the event is sponsored by the Granite City Chapter of the Academy, according to an academy spokesman.

There will be a parade of girls and boys, dressed in party dress or in costumes, being viewed by impartial judges on personal terms.

Tickets may be obtained at the door and are priced at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children under age 12.

MASTERCARD, VISA DOLLAR VOLUME UP
Despite a reduction in the number of individual transactions, the dollar volume of bank charge card sales increased slightly in the five-state area which includes metropolitan St. Louis during the first quarter of the year. The combined Mastercard and Visa business totaled $425,804,000, up 2 percent over the first three months of 1980. Individual transactions — retail sales and bank cash advances — dropped to 12,159,000 from 13,023,000, a 7 percent decrease. The average transaction rose to $35.02 from $31.93 last year.

Charge 2 in disturbance at restaurant

Karl E. Bronnauer, 17, of 1850 Spring Ave., and Robert T. Montgomery, 17, Belleville, were charged with criminal damage to property, disorderly conduct and violating Granite City's curfew laws after they allegedly caused disturbances at Jack-in-the-Box Restaurant, 3330 Nameoki Road, last week. Police were told that two teens in a white car used loud and abusive language toward an employee at the drive-through window and one spit on the employee when he refused to serve them.

They then allegedly broke a window on the side of the restaurant and ran toward Johnson Road. Police located the white car on the parking lot of Reeb's Dairy on Johnson Road and found Montgomery behind the dairy. Bronnauer also was arrested in the parking lot and the two were identified by the restaurant employee as the two who had caused the disturbances and broke the window.

HURT ON NAMEOKI

Marie Sale, 42, of 2001 Beckwith Ave., Madison, was injured when her auto was involved in an accident with the car of Harvey Mueller, St. Louis, on Nameoki Road at Clark Avenue last week. She was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where she was treated for pain and injuries to her chest, which struck the steering wheel of her car. She was released after X-rays were taken.

Arch booklet is available

"The Mathematics of Arch," a little journal explaining "everything you couldn't figure out about the St. Louis landmark," is ready for distribution at the Teachers' Center Project at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The 17-page book is the work of a Hungarian mathematician who visited the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial one weekend and got excited and curious about what he saw. Tamas Varga, professor at the National Institute of Pedagogy in Budapest and visiting professor at TCP, said the book is for "the engineer, the accountant and the statistician in us all, whether we grow up to be one or not."

Starting with the basic dimensions of the tallest, man-made monument in the country, Varga explains the catenary curve and why designer Eero Saarinen probably decided to invert it and use it. From there, Varga works his way through the triangles of the sections and the possibility of equalizers up to a comparison of the curve with arcs and parabolas — asking questions all the way. The math will challenge the 10-year-old on up, he said. Copies of the book are available at the Teachers' Center Project at SIUE for $1. The cost of printing. Address requests to SIUE, Box 122, Edwardsville, Ill., 62026 or telephone 618-692-2118. The Center will also mail a complete list of 50 additional publications on request.

STEAL TELEVISIONS

In a burglary at the home of Francis Brewer, 2601 Sheridan Ave., reported at 4:25 a.m. Sunday, two televisions and a stereo system, including speakers, turntable, recorder, eight track and receiver, were stolen. Entry was gained by forcing a rear basement door.

PHILIP MEHELIC

Appoint former resident manager

Philip Mehelic, a native of Granite City, has been appointed agency manager of the New England Life Insurance Company's Omaha (Nebraska) office.

Mehelic graduated with honors from Southern Illinois University in 1967 and received a master of science degree in 1972. He spent six years as a teacher and administrator in a program for handicapped children before joining New England Life in 1973 at the Topeka agency. Mehelic became district manager of the agency's Manhattan (Kan.) office in March 1975, and was appointed assistant general agent in Topeka in January 1978. Under his direction, the agency grew from $3,500,000 in production in 1973 to $51,000,000 in 1980, with four district offices. Mehelic was recipient of New England Life's prestigious Agency Builder's Award in both 1979 and 1980. Currently pursuing a designation, Mehelic is past president of the Northeast Kansas General Agents and Managers Association. He and his wife, Beckie, now reside in Omaha.

GROCERY CARTS HIT

Terry Sheppard, 20, of 286 Holiday Mobile Home Park, was charged with disorderly conduct and violating a red traffic light after his Ford Ranchero allegedly was seen pushing and hitting grocery carts in the parking lot of Schnuck's food store in Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center last week. A policeman followed the vehicle to the Kroger store in Nameoki Village Shopping Center and then south on Nameoki Road, where it allegedly violated the red light at Johnson Road. The auto was stopped at Nameoki Road and Madison Avenue and Sheppard was arrested.

Wide open field at South Tourney

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — Let's put it this way: Somebody's GOT TO win the Granite City South Round Robin Baseball Tournament this weekend. All four teams entered in this year's meet are in slumps of sorts, including defending champion Granite City North, which has lost three of its last four games. Ditto for host Granite South, loser of five of its last six.

But the two visitors from upstate, Kankakee Eastridge and Lisle Benet Academy, aren't currently having banner campaigns either.

The tournament will begin Friday at 4 p.m. with North facing Benet Academy. At approximately 6:30 p.m., South will face Eastridge.

The meet continues Saturday at 10 a.m. with North vs. Eastridge. At 12:30, South plays Benet. At 2 p.m., Eastridge will face Benet, with North vs. South immediately following.

Kankakee Eastridge, which will come into town with a 9-6 record, will be making its second trip south in as many weeks. Last weekend, the Raiders made a swing through the Carbondale area and came out with a 5-2 mark on the trip. Wins were over DuQuoin, Anna-Jonesboro, Marion, Mount Vernon and Carbondale. Shawnee (Ullin) beat Eastridge 5-2 and Carbondale edged the Raiders 4-3 in eight innings in the second game of a doubleheader.

"We like to get away," said Eastridge coach Mike Vanhorn, who hails from Carbondale. "I've always had good relations with (former South coach) Babe Champion. I coached the Kankakee Legion team and the Carbondale Legion and brought them to Granite City for games. I've always liked going there."

Vanhorn's team is led by senior pitcher Rich Koch, who Wednesday signed a full-ride scholarship to play next season at SIU-Carbondale. The 6-3, 185-pounder is one of the top batters on the team and was All-State basketball player.

"He's our standout by far," said Vanhorn. "He's 3-1 right now. He also plays shortstop. He probably won't pitch too much down there, though. We'll rotate our arms and probably throw just about everybody."

Eastridge will also feature senior Andy Benaul, a righthander with a 3-1 record on the mound. He most likely will start Friday's game against South. Another likely starter will be sophomore Jeff Mosferdini, who is 2-1. The Raiders are led in the offensive department by senior centerfielder Steve Themer, who's hitting at a .385 clip.

Defensively, however, is a problem, according to Vanhorn. "We're inconsistent," he said. "Right now, we're not playing good baseball."

Benet Academy will bring the worst record into the tournament, with a 4-10 mark. "We're a fairly young team," said head coach Martin Wiora. "We lost a lot of good players to graduation last year."

Benet's Redwings got their season off to a roaring start when senior leftfielder Bruce Skoanski tossed a no-hitter in the opener against Romeville (a 6-1 Benet win). But since then, it's a different story. "We're having a hard time scoring," said Wiora. "Plus, we've been inconsistent defensively."

According to Wiora, Skoanski will probably start Friday's game against Granite North.

EDWARDSVILLE — It was just about all Alton here Tuesday in the running of the annual Madison County large school boys track meet at SIU-Edwardsville's Cougar Field.

Alton finished way ahead of the pack with 102 points. Granite City North was second with 66 points, followed by Edwardsville with 54, Granite City South with 34 and Collinsville with 22.

But Granite City's participants made a good showing. For instance, take North's Tim Rozycki. He continued to show why he is one of the area's top hurdlers by winning both the 110 high hurdles and the 300 low hurdles. His winning time in the high hurdles was 15 seconds. He was clocked in 39.65 in the low hurdles. Pat Collins of Granite City South was third in the high hurdles (15.9). South's Paul Smith, a freshman, was third in Rozycki in the low hurdles in a time of 41.07.

Mike Long of Granite North was another double winner for the Steelers. He took first place in both the shot put and the discus. His heave in the shot put measured at 16.05 meters. His distance was 45.32 meters in the discus throw.

Jon Bunch of Granite North finished second in the 800 meter run in a time of 1:58.42. Collinsville's Erry was the winner of the event in a time of 1:56.83. Bruce DeRuntz of North Alton stood out. Gary Chappell a good run for it, but eventually finished second in the 3200 meter run. Chappell's winning time was 9:36.12, while DeRuntz was clocked in 9:48.34. Granite City South's Dave McLean was third in a time of 9:55.46.

In the 1600 meter run, Alton's Chappell was the winner in a time of 4:23.33. Erry of Collinsville was second in 4:27.56, followed by South's Drew Geisler in 4:28.15 and DeRuntz in 4:28.40.

Granite South finished second to Collinsville in the 3200 meter relay in a time of 8:24.78. Collinsville's winning Kakohs posted a time of 8:19.22. Granite City North's Steelers finished second to a strong Alton squad in the 1600 meter relay. Alton's winning time was 3:31.3, while North's second place clocking was 3:32.8.

South was third in the 400 meter relay and North was fourth. In the 800 meter relay event, North was fourth and South was fifth. Alton won both events.

Don Keeling of south placed fourth in 68 long jump with a leap of 5.83 meters. Edwardsville's Mosby was the winner with a distance of 5.96 meters. Pregel of North was fifth at 5.76 meters.

In the high jump, South's Smith and Bryan Eggers finished three-four. Smith cleared 5-10. Pitchers also cleared 5-10, but required more attempts to do it.

In the triple jump, South's Collins was fifth with a distance of 43-6. Granite North's Meyer and Mike Robinson finished one-two in the pole vault. Meyer's first place height was 12-6, while Robinson cleared 12 feet even.

The next action for South will be today (weather permitting) at home against Cahokia, beginning at 4 p.m. North's junior varsity girls and freshman boys will be at Collinsville, beginning at 4 p.m. today, Saturday, both North and South's boys and girls teams will participate, along with Belleville, Alton, Cahokia and Edwardsville, in the annual Gateway East Conference Relays at SIU-Edwardsville, beginning at 10 a.m.

North, South are edged out

GRANITE CITY — When you're given the chance to score, you'd better grab it. The Granite City South baseball team had plenty of opportunities to improve on its record here Tuesday, but if you can't hit the ball, you won't score.

Having lost seven out of their last eight games, the Warriors were kept in their tails by New Athens. The Yellow Jackets held on to an early lead and handed South a 5-3 loss. It put the Warriors' record to 8-13-1. Tuesday was a bad day for Granite City North, too. After taking an 8-1 lead in the third inning, the Steelers saw Breese Mater Del come from behind to nip them at 8-1. The victory came after North's 6-4 Gateway East Conference victory Monday over Cahokia.

North struck first at Breese, scoring four runs in the top of the first inning. The Steelers added two more runs in both the second and third frames, after Mater Del's Knights had scored one in the bottom of the second. But back came the Knights.

Mater Del scored three runs in the bottom of the third inning, three more in the fourth and added two in the fifth to take the lead for good.

The big bat for North was held by Brian Corey, who went three-for-four and clouted a home run. He had three RBI. Scott Corey was one-for-three, but had a double and two RBI. Jeff Puryear was two-for-four for the Steelers. Rich Takmajian had two RBI, but suffered the loss on the mound.

Mater Del's Jay Stockman powered a home run, while teammate Tim Schulte was the winning pitcher.

In its recent losing stretch, South's biggest problem has been its hitting. The Warriors have been given all the chances they need to score, but their bats have failed to produce. And against New Athens, three hits just wasn't going to do the trick.

The 1979 state Class A champs, New Athens plugged away, putting together a run here and there. Come the bottom of the fifth, South was faced with a 4-0 deficit. But it had its chance.

The Warriors had on a runner on third in the first and didn't score. They even had the bases loaded in the third with only one out with still didn't come up with a run.

Mater Del scored three runs in the bottom of the third inning, three more in the fourth and added two in the fifth to take the lead for good.

coach Bob Matzenbacher to lift him in the fourth. "He hasn't pitched that much and is not proven yet," said Matzenbacher. "I wanted to build his confidence, but I could see some things develop."

South welcomed the substitution and it took just an inning before the Warriors solved relief hurler John Wahlg. After drawing a lead-off walk, Warrior Ken Wilson moved around on a base hit from Mark Clark and a sacrifice from Phil Motruac. He finally scored on Rick Daily's ground out. They weren't done yet.

Scott Graesthouse laced South's third and last base hit in the sixth. The one-out poke was followed by walks to George Jarvis and Troy McIlroy. Matzenbacher had seen enough and went to the bench for a second time.

Another change for New Athens proved to be disastrous as its third pitcher walked in a run. Clark fielders choice drove in the second tally of the inning, but the opening hit was all South could get. The Yellow Jackets staged off the spurt.

Matzenbacher noted that his teams biggest problem throughout the season has been errors. New Athens has committed 68 errors in 19 games. It didn't have any against South and its record is now 12-7.

"I moved a bunch of guys around in the field," said Matzenbacher. "This has to be the best defensive game we have played all year. We have played a lot of tough teams, but we don't have the experience yet and I'm still trying to find the right combination of people."

Modica may have solved one of South's plagues problems, too. With only two established pitchers he would like to have three and may have found that one. Warrior starting pitcher Pat Linhart was forced to leave the game after giving up four runs on six hits. Clark, who hasn't pitched in a while according to Modica, was called to the mound and really was a surprise.

"I have trying to find a third pitcher and that's why I went to Clark," said Modica. "I haven't work with him, but decided to stay with him and he did a good job." Clark gave up just one run on a hit in two and two-thirds innings of work. But the lack of hitting, which has resulted in the South's present losing stretch, has had its effects. "There is big lack of enthusiasm on the team," said Modica. "Some of the guys are down because they are not playing."

It all meant a second place finish for Madison in Tuesday's Madison County Small School Track Meet at Clive Memorial High. Triad 1:43.3 was determined to be the "winning" time.

Madison 'was robbed'

By PETE HAYES

BETHALTO — If not for an official's decision, Madison High's boys track team would be the new Madison County champion. But it's not.

It came in the 800 meter relay. Madison's Tyrone Manzy had just completed the third leg and was getting set to hand off to teammate Raymond Price. The Madison squad was breezing to an easy victory — at least it appeared that way. But up flew the official's flag. A violation.

Madison's Price scooted into the finish line, breaking the tape almost ten seconds ahead of the nearest opponent. But the violation had been called against Madison — for apparently making the baton exchange outside of the exchange zone. The Trojans' time of 1:37.7 was wiped out. Highland's 1:43.3 was determined to be the "winning" time.

won the team title with 60 points, followed by Madison with 57, Highland with 54, Wood River 41, Roxana 39 and Civic Memorial 37.

"I have to think like the guy who said, 'We was robbed,'" said Madison head coach Charles Steptoe. "We won it (the 800 relay) by a mile."

"But to have it taken away from us like that — it's hard to take. Especially when we would have won the meet. Heck, we'd have won the meet with a second or a third."

Madison's runners reacted to the decision with outrage. But Steptoe was more philosophic. "I'm not disputing the official's decision," he said. "The runners said they didn't step outside the zone. But I'm sure he saw it that way."

"It just means we'll have to work harder on our exchanges."

But Steptoe said it's hard to blame the loss on that one event. "There were other things we had chances to pick up on the points that we needed," he said. "But when you actually DO IT and you can't see it, it's hard."

Madison won the 400 meter relay in a time of 45.7 seconds. Squad members were Charles Fuller, Shawn Brown, Darrell Dixon and Richard Borney. Triad picked up second at 48.0, followed by Highland in a dead-heat, also at 48.0.

Madison's Borney picked up three more first places. He won the 100 meter dash in a time of 11.4 seconds, the 400 meter run in 23.4 and the 200 meter dash in 23.4.

Wood River's Charles White finished second to Borney in the 100 with a time of 11.8, a tenth of a second ahead of Madison's Fuller.

In the 400, Triad's Steve French was second in 54.4, again, just a tenth of a second ahead of Fuller.

White again was second to Borney in the 200 in 24.1. Triad's Steve Pittman was third in 24.5, followed by Tyrone Branch of Madison, also in 24.5.

Madison's Darrell Dixon was first in the 300 meter low hurdles. His time of 41.6 seconds was a personal best. Ron Steiner of Highland was second in 42.5.

The Madison 1600 meter relay team of Fuller, Elmer Collins, Manzy and Price won their event in 3:40.0. Highland was second in 3:44.6 and Wood River was third in 3:46.8.

The two mile run was won by John Lange of Civic Memorial in a time of 10:29.2. Highland's John Ballavont was second in 10:37.2. Jeff Fink of Roxana

Baseball

Why come so far south to play baseball? "I've always been active in the IHBCA (Illinois High School Baseball Coaches Association)," said Wiora. "I've gotten to know a lot of the coaches across the state. When I met John (South head coach Modica) at the state tournament last year, we started talking about the tournament and I was interested."

"We have a hard time getting games in up here," Wiora said. "Just today (Wednesday) we had a doubleheader rained out. And it's warmer down south. It gives the kids a good chance to get away and see different teams around the state."

Triad's Jerry Walker was the winner of the shot put with a toss of 41 feet, 7 1/2 inches.

Nominated for national honor

Baker named District Soccer Coach of Year

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — They just keep coming in. Granite City South's prolific soccer coach Gene Baker has received another honor. And there may be another one on the way.

Baker was named District 4 Soccer Coach of the Year last week by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association. The list of only eight such honorees in the nation. The eight are automatically nominated for National Soccer Coach of the Year honors.

Baker will receive his District award at the annual National Awards Banquet June 26 in Biloxi, Miss. at the

GENE BAKER

Mississippi Convention Center. The dinner will be co-sponsored by the National Football League. The naming of the National Coach of the Year recipient will also take place at the banquet.

Baker, who has guided the Granite City South soccer team to five consecutive state championships, out-did himself last season. His team won everything in sight. The Warriors finished the season with a 31-2 record, won the state title, the sectional title, the sectional championship and the Catholic Youth Council Tournament in St. Louis, the most prestigious high school soccer tournament in the country. Along the way, South defeated the eventual state champions from both Missouri (St. Louis Vianney High) and Indiana (Evansville Reitz Memorial).

Winning the National Coach of the Year, of course, won't be easy. Among the eight other nominees is John McVicar, head coach at Rocky Hill, Conn., which has won the last two Connecticut state titles and has won four titles in the last seven years. Other nominees are Arthur Linder of Roosevelt High in Washington, D.C., Lawrence McCormick of Bishop Moore High in Orlando, Fla., Theodore Seidel of Burnsville, Minn. High, Terry Logan of Bishop High in Lake Oswego, Oregon and Roger Bryant of Torrance, Cal. South High.

At the banquet, coaches-of-the-Year in 15 sports will be named.

Indiana signs prep kickers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana University soccer coach Jerry Yeagley has announced that the Hoosiers will host champion San Francisco, Sept. 13 in the inaugural game at IU's new $3 million soccer complex.

The Little 500-Soccer Stadium will be the finest soccer facility on the collegiate level.

The Indiana-San Francisco match will be one of the top regular season games of the year, said Yeagley. The rivalry between the schools has become one of the most intense in the country. Three times in the last five years the Dons have defeated the Hoosiers in the NCAA championship match.

Two of the top high school soccer prospects in St. Louis and a Venezuelan Olympic team star have decided to attend Indiana University to play for coach Jerry Yeagley.

Mike Hylia, a midfielder from Vinnany High School and Dave Boncek, a forward from St. Mary's High School will join several other St. Louis area players on the Hoosier roster next fall. Both Hylia and Boncek were members of the 1981 Parade Magazine high school American squad. Hylia is a member of the U.S. Junior National team.

Iker Zubizarreta, a forward and a member of the Venezuelan Junior National and 1980 Olympic teams, will add another link to IU's "Latin Connection." Former Hoosier great Angelo Hernandez.

Over the last three years, the IU schedule has been as strong as any Division I school and this year is no exception.

To open the season, the Hoosiers travel east to face three of the top teams in New England. IU opens at Vermont, Sept. 2, then faces Boston College, Sept. 4 and finished the trip against national power Connecticut, Sept. 6.

The Big Red will have a 10 game home schedule this fall. Highlighting the home slate will be San Francisco, and nationally ranked Akron (Sept. 20), 1979 NCAA champ SIU-Edwardsville (Sept. 27) and Evansville (Nov. 1).

Oct. 10-11 Indiana will host the Eastern division of the Big Ten Tournament. Michigan State, Ohio State, Illinois and Indiana will make up the field for the tournament. The Big Red has never lost a game to a conference foe in seven years.

The Hoosiers take to the road 11 times in '81. Top opponents will be St. Louis (Oct. 2) and regional rivals Wisconsin-Milwaukee (Oct. 17) and Cleveland State (Oct. 24). Indiana has never won a match at Cleveland State. Newcomers to the IU schedule will be Louisville (Oct. 4), rising Mid-east power Bowling Green (Oct. 14) and Marquette (Oct. 18). Granite City South graduate Mark Goldschmidt will be a junior starter.

South High students prepare for Fine Arts Festival

Students in the art and band departments at Granite City High School are completing their preparations for the 1981 Fine Arts Festival scheduled for Tuesday, April 28. The art department is planning exhibits of students' works done throughout the school year while the graduating seniors with majors in art will have their own individual displays.

The South High concert band, under the direction of Joseph Owens, will conclude the school year with its final performance at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. Admission to the hour-long concert will be 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

Inequities in health and health care

(This is the ninth in a series of 15 articles exploring "The Nation's Health." Dr. H. Jack Geiger, professor of community medicine at the City College of New York, discusses why the poor, particularly minorities, have poorer health and less access to good medical care than other Americans. Copyright (c) 1980 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By JACK GEIGER
For millions of Americans in poverty — the working poor, blacks and Hispanics of inner-city slums, migrant farm workers and scattered rural residents — the last 15 years in health and medical care have been a Great Leap Sideways.

These groups have better health today — but they are just as far behind the rest of us as they were in 1965.

The nation overall has been reaching record levels in improved health. But the poor — and, disproportionately, non-whites — are still paying an inequitable toll, in dead babies, shortened lives, days of lost work, and avoidable suffering.

It is still the poor who are likelier to be sick, the sick who are likelier to be poor, and the sick poor who have the least chance for effective help.

If there is an important difference from 1965, it is that American society, after years of the war on poverty, billions of dollars in Medicare and Medicaid expenditures, and a skyrocketing national bill for medical care, seems less aware that the health gap for the poor and minorities is still real and serious.

But it is. Consider these figures:
— Our infant mortality rate has been dropping five percent a year since 1965 and is now at an all-time low of 14 infant deaths per thousand live births. But the black infant mortality rate, which in 1960 was 64 percent higher than the white rate, is now almost 100 percent higher.

— Black children under age five die at twice the rate of white children. In the most productive years of life, ages 25-44, the black death rate is three times higher. A non-white mother is five times likelier than a white mother to die of a complication in childbirth.

— Overall, the average costs of being non-white in America include 40 percent more days disabled or sick each year; higher risks of cancer, heart disease, strokes and diabetes; and six years off the average lifespan of 73.2 years.

BURDENS OF POVERTY.
The figures for Hispanic-Americans, Native Americans, and other minority groups, while not quite as bad, also show a major health gap.

But it is poverty, not racial or minority status in itself, that is the great cause of excess sickness and death.

— In EVERY population group, white and non-white, most of the excess ill health and death are in the lowest income levels.

— WITHIN each population group, the difference in health status between the poorest and the richer members are much greater than health differences BETWEEN whites and non-whites at any given income level.

Poverty means not enough to eat; one-fourth of the nation's children live in families with incomes too low for adequate nutrition, and 30 percent of poor American children have iron-deficiency anemia.

Poverty means overcrowded and dangerous housing. Poverty means dirty, dangerous jobs with high exposure to workplace hazards.

And poverty means stress — an exhausting, continuous struggle to survive, escape crime, get an education, raise children, and stay healthy, without the real means to do so.

PAYING OUT OF POCKET.
Even while the poor continue to suffer excess illness, we have failed to assure their access to doctors, hospitals, and other medical care despite massive expenditures for programs like Medicare and Medicaid.

— Despite those programs, 23 million Americans, roughly 11 percent of our population, still have no medical care coverage of any kind, governmental or private. Most of them are the working poor, with incomes just above the survival levels that would make them eligible for Medicaid.

— Medicaid eligibility standards and benefits vary enormously from state to state. Thus, many families with incomes below the federal government's poverty standard are still declared ineligible.

— Medicaid eligibility standards and benefits vary enormously from state to state. Thus, many families with incomes below the federal government's poverty standard are still declared ineligible.

— Even with Medicare, which covers everyone over 65 regardless of income, there are problems. The combination of requirements that patients pay part of the bill, general inflation, and medical cost inflation means that old people are now paying MORE out of their own pockets for medical care than they did in 1965, and Medicare pays only 40 percent of the elderly's medical care costs.

LIMITED ACCESS.
However, providing payment for medical care does not — for the poor, at least — ensure ACCESS to that care, or mean that it will be focused on their problems.

Sixty percent of the poor now live in inner cities. But doctors have been migrating out of cities and into affluent suburbs.

Today, there is only one physician for every 2,000 urban residents. And in many areas, almost half the physicians refuse to accept Medicaid patients.

So in our inner cities, where health problems are most severe, 25 percent of the urban poor have no regular source of care.

It means long waits, medical care means only the hospital outpatient clinic or the emergency room.

It means long waits, medical care means only the hospital outpatient clinic or the emergency room.

And that is why the poor are 60 percent more likely to die of preventable or treatable diseases like pneumonia, twice as likely to die of diabetes, five times likelier to die of tuberculosis.

That is why 30 percent of poor children are incompletely immunized.

That is why the babies of the poor die needlessly and why adults, when hospitalized, must stay in the hospital longer, for they are already suffering from advanced disease.

SIDESTEPING THE SOLUTION.
These problems are not insoluble. Our society has already demonstrated in some cases that we can close the health gap for the poor. We are simply choosing not to do so.

One answer is direct choosing not to do so.

One answer is direct governmental provision of comprehensive medical service to low-income and minority populations whom the private sector cannot or will not serve.

We do this through a network of comprehensive community health centers or ambulatory and primary care, located in the communities of greatest need and responsive to them.

H. Jack Landon has been the Arthur C. Logan professor of Community Medicine and director of the Program in Health, Medicine and Society in the School of Biomedical Education, City College of New York, since 1976.

He was previously associated with the Tufts University School of Medicine and with the State University of New York at Stony Brook. The recipient of many awards, he proposed the neighborhood health center program to the Office of Economic Opportunity and designed and implemented the first OEO developing such community health centers in 1965.

In Newark, they cut the infant mortality rate in their target areas by more than 50 percent in five years, in Omaha by almost 70 percent.

One such center in Mississippi reduced malnutrition, improved housing, and trained people for medical careers.

But these are only 200 such centers, serving two million people, when the government itself estimates that 800 more public health centers are needed to serve 10 million.

The twin burdens of the poor — inadequate health and inadequate health care — raise important questions about our society.

Do we really care? And if we do, will we continue to underfund the programs that work, while investing ever more public funds in a private medical sector that seems unwilling or unable to do the job effectively?

The short-term prospects for the poor are, I believe, worse than at any time in the past quarter-century.

Inflation and an uncertain economy point to more poverty and inevitably more illness.

At the same time, the great public hospitals and the social program that lessen the effects of poverty, food stamps, school lunches, neighborhood health centers, the National Health Service Corps — are being cut back by the government.

The Great Leap Sideways may turn into something worse: a Giant Step Backwards.

Staff is praised for 30,000 graduates

Employees of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were honored last week by President Earl Lazerson for "dedication, commitment, loyalty and manifold achievements."

Addressing the 11th annual awards and retirement banquet, where more than 350 "received special recognition," Lazerson said:

"During the past quarter century, you have created in this region a major resource of public higher education where none existed before."

"In hundreds of ways, you are performing indispensable public service activities to better the fabric of life for all in Southern Illinois and this metropolitan area."

The president said that in the 25 years the university has had programs in this area, more than 30,000 students have received SIUE degrees in the arts, the natural and social sciences, the humanities and business.

He added that 75 percent of the graduates have remained in this area, "enriching our economic, social and cultural existence with their skills and abilities."

In addition, the School of Dental Medicine has graduated several hundred dentists, over 70 percent of whom are practicing in Southern Illinois and "attending to the vital health care needs of our citizens."

The president added that "our nursing and education graduates perform in valuable services in the region's hospitals and schools."

Giving credit to the employees, Lazerson said, "One can only acknowledge what you have done as a magnificent achievement and note that this has been accomplished over years which have seen a bewildering variety of changes both in society and in the university."

"We all hope that the transitional period we are in will soon be over so that we can begin to build a new health center grants."

may fully put our energies at the vital tasks before us."

Recognized at the banquet were 36 retirees, 207 employees who have completed 10 to 25 years of service, and 110 civil service and professional staff employees who were selected to receive outstanding performance awards.

In addition, five-year service awards were distributed last week to 25 members of the faculty and professional staff.

Arrest 2 GC men in Madison

Wade J. Hannah, 23, of 2837 E. 28th St., and Robert G. Theis, 23, of 2147 Lee Ave., were arrested by Madison police at 1:35 a.m. Sunday, following an altercation Hannah allegedly had with another man.

The disturbance started inside Ails 520 Club, 520 Madison Ave., and continued a few minutes later on the corner of Sixth Street and Madison Avenue.

A Madison and a Venice police officer went to the tavern and saw one man lying on the floor inside the front door, the report states.

The barmaid said a disturbance had occurred and she had ordered the men outside and closed down the bar.

After leaving the premises, the altercation erupted again on the street, with the officers attempting to restrain Hannah, who refused to be handcuffed and necessary force was used by police.

At this time, the report states, Theis allegedly became loud and abusive and cursed the officers. He also was arrested.

Theis was charged with disorderly conduct and released at 8:50 a.m. Sunday on payment of a $50 cash bond.

Hannah was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct and was released at 10:45 a.m. Sunday on payment of a $35 cash bond.

Both men reportedly suffered cuts and bruises in the incident.

Key role by Stinson in GC Steel merger

George A. Stinson, who retired Wednesday as National Steel Corporation board chairman, played a key role in that firm's 1971 acquisition of Granite City Steel.

Associated with National Steel for 20 years, he was named to its executive committee in 1963 and yesterday was chosen as chairman of the executive committee.

Since 1961, National Steel's assets have grown from $937 million to $13 billion.

Stinson was praised this week for strengthening the corporation's raw materials position in coal and ore to achieve virtually self-sufficiency well into the 21st Century.

Continuation of National Steel's tradition of becoming early in new steelmaking technology (this includes leadership in domestic continuous slab-casting technology, and the full use of the basic oxygen steelmaking process).

Successful acquisition of the former Granite City Steel Co., which broadened National's markets and increased its capacity.

Diversifying into aluminum production with the building of a primary smelter in Hawesville, Ky., and the acquisition of downstream aluminum fabricating and finishing facilities.

And, most recently, the acquisition of United Financial Corporation of California, which put National Steel into the financial services business for the first time.

An internationally known steel executive, Stinson served as chairman of the board of National Steel since 1972. Prior to joining the corporation in April 1961 as vice president and secretary, he had been a practicing lawyer for 15 years.

Stinson was born on Feb. 11, 1915, at Camden, Ark. He received a bachelor of arts degree in 1936 from Northwestern University, and a juris doctor degree in 1939 from Columbia University.

He was admitted to the New York bar in 1939, and served as legal assistant to the presiding judge of the Tax Court of the United States in Washington, D.C., before entering Air Force in 1941. In his four years of service, Stinson advanced to lieutenant colonel, and was awarded the Legion of Merit.

Following military service, Stinson in 1946 joined the New York law firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Friendly and Hamilton.

In 1947 and 1948, he served as a special assistant to the attorney general of the United States.

He then resumed the practice of law in 1948 with his firm in New York City, until joining National in 1961.

He was elected a director of National in August 1963, president in December 1963, and became chief executive officer in February 1966. He subsequently became chairman of National's board of directors in May 1972.

Over the years, Stinson has become active in the affairs of the world steel industry. These activities include having served as chairman and chief executive officer of the American Iron and Steel Institute, 1969-1971; chairman of the International Iron and Steel Institute, 1975-1977; and as a member of the Presidential Commission on International Trade and Investment Policy, 1970-1971.

He also has been national chairman of the 1976 U.S. Industrial Payroll, Savings Committee, after having served as steel industry chairman in 1975.

Currently, he remains actively involved with steel industry governmental affairs in Washington, D.C. He recently pleaded the industry's case, for instance, for a three-year extension of environmental clean-up deadlines before members of Congress as a representative of a tripartite committee.

He is a trustee of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, and a director of the Hanna Mining Co. and Ralston Purina Co. He is also a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh and the Presbyterian University Hospital.

Stinson was president of the Allegheny Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America from 1971 to 1973, and received its Silver Beaver award.

He is a member of the board of regents of Northwestern University, and has been awarded the following honorary degrees: doctor of laws by West Virginia University (1968) and by Beloit College (1972); doctor of humanities by Thiel College (1974); and doctor of public service by Salem College (1979).

During 1978, he was elected a member and trustee of the Claude Worthington Benedum Foundation, and a senior member of the Conference Board.

He is the author of several books and treatises on legal subjects, a member of the bar of New York State and of the District of Columbia, and a member of the American Law Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Stinson — she is the former Betty Jane Kilgus of Weston, W. Va. — live in Edgeworth, Pa. They are the parents of four children, Thomas M., Lauretta Alice, Peter T. and Joel M.

One-day changes at hospital due to fund dinner

Plans are complete for the Saturday, May 2, De La Roche Awards dinner at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The formal fund-raising dinner will be attended by individuals who have made large contributions to the Medical Center.

Because arrangements for the dinner will create some changes in the usual routine, people who will be visiting the Medical Center on that day are being asked to note the following:

1. Bonaventure's will close on Saturday, May 2, after breakfast and reopen at breakfast-time on Sunday. The coffee shop in the lobby will close at 2 p.m. on that day. Food will be served in the Wiesman Room, located on the first floor, and signs will be posted to direct visitors there.

2. Because the visitor parking lot in front of the lobby will be closed all day Saturday, visitors are to park in the garage.

3. The lobby will close at 2 p.m. Visitors may enter the Medical Center through the Reese's entrance or the entrance near the emergency room. Signs will direct people to the elevators and information desks.

4. The ICU (intensive care unit) waiting area will be closed from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. May 2. Visitors may use the surgery waiting area during that time.

9 Nameoki officials take oath of office

Nameoki Township officials elected in the April 7 township election were sworn in at 4 p.m. yesterday by Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick in the county courthouse in Edwardsville and will begin their terms Monday, May 4.

Confusion over the deadline for swearing in the new officials resulted in the winners asking to be sworn in by a judge within 10 days of the official canvass, which was held April 13.

Original plans called for highway commissioner Frank Mehlisch to be sworn in at the April 27 Nameoki Town Board of Trustees meeting and the other elected officials to be sworn in at the May 4 town board meeting.

However, it later was discovered that state statutes require that the winners be sworn in within 10 days of the canvass, causing a rush to swear in the new officials.

There still is some confusion over when the new officials will be seated. The terms of office for the new supervisor, town clerk and four trustees begin May 4, but there is no regular meeting of the town board scheduled for that night. The board is to meet Monday, April 27, and again Monday, May 11, unless a special meeting is called for May 4.

The term of the highway commissioner begins Monday, April 27, while the terms of the tax assessor and collector do not begin until Jan. 1, 1982.

Nevertheless, to meet the deadline to be sworn in, those taking the oath of office from Judge Rarick yesterday afternoon were supervisor-elect Harry Briggs, highway commissioner Frank Mehlisch, town clerk-elect Donald Ridgeway, tax assessor Carl Macios, tax collector-elect Norman Hall, trustee W. Lee Adams and Helen Hawkins, Joseph Garcia and Don Wilson, trustee-elect.

Man smashes car windshield

Duane Lanter of St. Jacob, Ill., told police he was sitting in his auto at 2 a.m. Saturday, waiting for a train to clear the tracks on Edwardsville Road, when a man came up to the car and started breaking his windshield with an object.

Lanter said he managed to start the car and drove into the Granite City Steel property to tell police, but got his vehicle stuck on the tracks inside the plant area. Someone who saw the window smashing incident said the man was roughly six feet tall with long blond hair and weighed about 250 pounds.

Swear in new Chouteau officials

Officials of Chouteau Township who were elected April 7 were sworn in at Monday night's town board of trustees meeting.

They were sworn in by re-elected town clerk Patricia Polley, who was sworn in last week in Edwardsville by Chief Circuit Judge Horace Calvo.

The supervisor, town clerk and four trustees will be officially seated at the May 4 town board meeting, including the only new official, trustee-elect Josephine Burgener.

The highway commissioner's term begins Monday, April 27, and the tax collector and assessor will begin their new terms, by law, until Jan. 1, 1982.

Sworn in by Mrs. Polley Monday night, in addition to Mrs. Burgener, were supervisor Walter "Dik" Sparks, highway commissioner Wilfred "Bud" Eberhardt, tax collector Cletus Bedwell, tax assessor Marion Sparks and re-elected trustees Steve Novosel, Dudley Luebbert, Tommy Johnson. The board members were invited to attend a spring conference of township of

The board agreed to pay the expenses and registration fees for all board members attending the sessions. Social Security recipients have reporting duties

People who receive Social Security checks have a responsibility to report any happening that could affect their right to or the amount of their checks, Oliver M. Holmes, district manager of the East St. Louis and Belleville Social Security offices, points out.

A report can be made by telephone, mail, or in person and is to include the following information: Name of the person, what is being reported, date it happened, signature, address, and the claim number under which benefits are being paid (a nine-digit number followed by a letter).

Holmes said the following events should be reported:

- Change in mailing address.
- Earnings of more than the annual limit — $5,000 for people 65 or over, $4,000 for people under 65. People getting benefits because of disability should report any work.

A person who is not an American citizen and goes outside the United States.

He added that dependents or survivors should also report:

- Divorce or annulment of marriage.
- Marriage.
- Adoption of child.

- Child leaving the care of a wife, husband, widow or widower.

- Child nearing 18 who is a full-time student or is disabled.

- Change of school attendance for student aged 18-22.

- A person who becomes unable to manage funds.

- A person who dies.

People getting benefits because they are disabled are to report any improvement in condition, any work, an application for or change in the amount of worker's compensation benefits, and imprisonment for commission of a felony.

More information about reporting can be obtained at the East St. Louis or Belleville Social Security offices.

Free booklets are available which explain reporting responsibilities in great detail. The toll-free number is Enterprise 1-555.

Crash injures 2 at Madison-15th

Two men were admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center last week with injuries sustained in a two-car accident on Madison Avenue at 15th Street.

Robert L. Galbraith Jr., 27, of Edwardsville, told police he was driving south on Madison when another vehicle crowded his auto across the center line, causing him to strike the northbound car of Charles M. Asberger, 18, of Granite City.

Galbraith was taken by ambulance to the medical center and was admitted with abrasions to the left elbow and pains in the neck, head and back.

A passenger in the Galbraith auto, Michael S. Singer, 28, of 38 Victoria Drive, also was transported to the Granite City hospital and admitted with abrasions to the chest and left arm and wrist.

Asberger, who police said suffered a minor injury, declined medical attention.

THIS IS SOMETHING SPECIAL! This is really a chance to save a good sum of money and get a worthwhile investment with it. If you need furniture for any part of your home . . . and want to really save, now is the time and FEDER HUBER FURNITURE is the place! This special event is going to be for a limited time . . . for only four days, this Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday.

IT'S SPRING CLEANING TIME . . . AND WE HAVE DISCOVERED SOME BUYS FOR YOU! We've gone through our inventory and found all our cats and dogs, white elephants, and "DISCOS" (A disco is a discontinued item. It may have been a good selling number and some designer at the factory decides to put more buttons on the back, they change the number on the item and its discontinued). We're willing to take any reasonable offer on any of these items!

So here's the deal . . . you can take advantage of us this weekend for 4 days only! Our people have been busy all week, reducing prices, checking inventory, unpacking and moving furniture for this event. Every item in the store has been given a triple take (that is, our warehousemen, office and management people have looked for items that are no longer current, a little slow in selling, or perhaps an off-beat color). Anything not passing the test gets a special sale tag.

Of course the floor samples and slightly "as is" merchandise will be marked way down, too. Everything is not half or more off but many things are. The bargains are plentiful throughout the store as we CLEAN HOUSE. The prices will be hard to resist (so please don't)! Most of it is first line, top quality merchandise. Lots of bargains throughout the store but for FOUR DAYS ONLY, and some quantities are limited, so read on and we'll STARTLE you (we hope) with our prices and great selection.

Well, enough of this jabber. Let's get down to the nitty-gritty . . . OUR CRAZY, UNBELIEVABLE SALE PRICES. Yes, they are crazy, but we've got to move these items now!

To start with we've got a "disco" on a Contemporary Sofa and Loveseat in a tough Herculon fabric; the suggested retail price is $499.00 but we've marked it down to $349.00 for both pieces.

How about Recliners and Chairs . . . Some chairs which are regular values of up to $200.00, now a low $99.00. Berkline Wallaway Recliners are our specialty. We got a special buy on a Nylon Wallaway, regular $339.00, now only $229.00. All the rest are 15% OFF.

SOFAS . . . LOVESEATS . . . All sorts of designs, styles, fabrics and colors. Many are one of a kind and discontinued . . . like this Contemporary Nylon Sofa that retails for $700.00 . . . now only $449.00. And a Country Colonial Sofa and Chair that was regular $999.00, now only $759.00 . . . And a Traditional Sofa for $249.00, it was $329.00! We've got a real steal on a Traditional Sofa and Loveseat with a regular $1399.00, spring cleaning priced at $979.00 for both. We promise that our prices are really crazy this weekend. THIS IS SPRING CLEANING. Continue on and you'll find at least a dozen Sofas worth $600.00 to $700.00, now only $499.00.

AT FEDER HUBER YOU ALWAYS GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH . . . BUT THESE SPECIAL PRICES END TUESDAY AT 5:00 P.M.!

SPRING CLEANING 4 DAYS ONLY

FRIDAY APRIL 24th 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.
SATURDAY, APRIL 25th. 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
MONDAY, APRIL 27th. 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
TUESDAY, APRIL 28th. 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

. . . If you've read this far and haven't found what you want DON'T GIVE UP! We have planned a crazy four days of ridiculous prices. WE'VE GOT THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF FURNISHINGS THAT MUST GO NOW . . . Our display floors and warehouse are jammed packed and now is your chance to save on hundreds of items at give-away prices . . . Some haven't sold . . . Some have been lost in the warehouse . . . Some are discontinued . . . Some left odd . . . We have to move them . . .

What do you do with odd CHESTS? Some stores leave them on the floor and try to get full price for them . . . but we're moving THEM OUT FOR $59.00.

Of course, not everything is half off . . . but in no way will you pay the regular price for any item in the store . . . For four days prices are not just reduced . . . PRICES ARE DROPPED . . . SMASHED . . . SLASHED. Oh yes . . . everything is reduced. Our LAMPS are going for two for one . . . all DESKS are 15% down from yesterday's price; we've even got some for as low as $99.95.

How about BEDROOM SETS . . . Oh boy, do we have them! Three, four, and five piece sets at crazy low prices. We've got Burlington House, Dixie, Thomasville, Singer and many more reliable brands . . . a broad selection of styles and finishes to choose from . . . Let's start with our open stock sets. There is a wide variety of pieces and several styles. SAVE a good 15% NOW! If a tight budget is your concern, we've got a complete Bedroom Set for $399.00. Or if THE PINE LOOK is your thing, take a look at our Bedroom Sets; we'll really "deal" on them!

DINING ROOM and DINETTE SETS . . . Get ready for your summer company! Our Dining Room area is jammed packed with beautiful sets . . . ALL WOOD SET REDUCED 20% . . . We can give you a complete Dining Set — china, table and six chairs for a crazy low price of $999.00 . . . Our selection of DINETTES simply amazes most of our customers . . . A real variety of sizes, styles, shapes and colors . . . We're knocking at least 15% OFF all of them.

We've got a bunch of Sleeper Sofas, some Twin Size, we are giving away for $269.00. A lot of Queen Size Beds, too. Some are factory closeouts, some discos, some just plain dogs. They are quite a buy; not too often you've seen Queen Size Sleepers for only $329.00.

THREE FLOORS OF FINE FURNITURE with, at last count, 8,000 pieces of furniture wall to wall . . . So, of course, we can't possibly list all items, but we can assure you that our PRICES ARE RIGHT!

A SUPER BEDDING BUY at a real low price. Mattresses by Sealy . . . twin size $79.95, full size $99.95 each piece, queen size sets $258 . . . Or a Bunk Bed complete with Bedding, Reg. $389.00 for only $299.00.

We hope that it's clear that this is only a very small sample of the buys in store for you . . . So come on in and spend some time with us . . . The savings available are well worth it . . . A give away party like this doesn't happen very often.

SNAPPER MOWERS CAN REMOVE AND BAG THE THATCH THAT STRANGLES YOUR LAWN... IN ONE EASY OPERATION.

The optional Thatcherizer quickly attaches to SNAPPER riding mowers and self-propelled walk mowers. The spring-loaded tines loosen the tightly interwoven dead plant material which prevents your lawn from getting the air, food and water necessary for healthy growth. When used with a rear-mounted grass catcher or bag, SNAPPER mowers are worth more because they do more and their price is competitive with other quality mowers.

The Light Touch

By Frank Townsend

Is there anything more embarrassing than coming out of your Memory Improvement class and forgetting where you parked the car? Inflation is so bad, economists are getting as bad a reputation as politicians. There has never been a statue erected to the memory of someone who let well enough alone. We all want our friends to tell us about our bad qualities. It's only the ones who do so that we can't tolerate. Small boy to call '71s go out and seek my fortune if I wasn't needed so badly at home as I am dependent. Seek us out at Townsend TV when you need to replace that old model TV and get a good price on a new one.

Seeking 'special' treatment for special education pupils

By ED GURNEY and GARY SCHNEIDER

Should a special education student be subject to less strict standards of school behavior than a regular student?

More specifically, should a 14-year-old junior high school student enrolled in a behavior disorders class be allowed to return to school after he had been caught smoking marijuana?

Those are the questions being asked as the result of an incident in Collinsville in which the board of education has been asked to rescind its expulsion April 1 of a special education student.

Local officials are watching carefully what happens in the Collinsville case, which is pitting the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation against Collinsville school officials. The confrontation could have far-reaching effects on how all public school districts in the state discipline handicapped and retarded students in special programs.

"It seems somewhat of a double standard on the discipline of students and that doesn't seem right," said Superintendent of the Granite City schools, B.J. Davis, said this morning.

Dusen Gage, a juvenile officer with the Granite City Police Department, briefly reviewed the Collinsville incident and supports the board of education. "How are you going to control the special education students? If you are going to let them smoke marijuana whenever they choose, that will have a heck of an effect on all the other kids."

"If misbehavior ends up with special favors — a reward — then all of the students will be tempted to misbehave," Gage said.

Tom Kennedy of the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation disagrees. He has notified the Collinsville Board of Education by letter that the foundation will seek "appropriate judicial and administrative relief," if it does not reinstate the student in question to his class immediately. The school board will meet tonight to study the demand.

"This is a bigger problem than just my client," Kennedy told a reporter. "This isn't the first time this has happened."

Vasil Eftimoff, administrative assistant for pupil-personnel services of the Granite City schools and a state hearing officer on expulsion and suspension cases, agreed that the Collinsville case is not the only case of this nature.

"I heard a similar case as a hearing officer for the state in a case from Peoria where a special education student received a five-day suspension for using foul language toward a substitute teacher. I ruled with the board of education, finding that the school district did not treat the student differently from other students, that the incident did not happen in a special education class and that the misbehavior was not due to the student's handicap. I understand that case is being appealed to the state appeals board."

"This is a battle going on throughout the country. There are similar cases in Florida and New York which are going to the courts. No decisions have been rendered," Eftimoff noted.

He said Public Law 504 provides certain civil rights for all handicapped, students and adults. Specifically, a handicapped person cannot be suspended or expelled from a class or his job due to his handicap, unless he is endangering other students, teacher, co-workers or himself, Eftimoff explained.

He said Collinsville's main argument may be that the student was endangering or harming himself by smoking marijuana. "Advocates hired by the feds and state are pushing this law. We have been very careful in Granite City to provide these rights to students and only the board of education can expel any student," he added.

Davis said the board of education has not yet had a situation where it has had to consider the suspension or expulsion of a special education student, but will be watching the Collinsville incident carefully, if it does end up in the courts. "This would be the first test of this law here in our own circuit," Davis noted.

It also could lead to a new emphasis on how misbehavior is handled in the behaviorally disturbed classes the school district conducts, the officials agreed.

Collinsville School Superintendent

John Renfro commented, "There is no attempt on our part not to comply with the law." He said it is the intent of the school district to be consistent with its policy on drug abuse and, at the same time, not violate the rights of the special education students.

In Collinsville, the drug abuse policy has been tough and strictly enforced, partially as the result of the shooting of assistant high school principal Ron Ganschietz several years ago in a drug-related incident.

The real issue is whether problem students should receive special treatment, or whether they should be forced to live under the same guidelines, and punishments, as other students.

"I don't think they should be handled with kid gloves. They don't want to be treated differently," Fred Hoffman, "Officer Friendly," of the Granite City police, contends. Hoffman, the only police officer who spends a great deal of his time with the good students, as well as the bad, said that "the punishment should fit the crime, providing that the special education student has an overall IQ such that he understands he is doing something wrong."

"If he meets that criteria, I would see nothing wrong with punishment. If the normal procedure for smoking marijuana is to expel, then I think he should be expelled, the same as any other student," Hoffman concluded.

Kennedy contends state rules governing special education students say that such students may not be expelled for behavior or a condition which is, or results from, "an exceptional characteristic." By expelling the student, the school board is implying that it believed the marijuana smoking was unrelated to the student's exceptional characteristic, Kennedy said.

"They have no business expelling a student, in my opinion, the way they did," he stated. If a special education student is to be removed from his class, he should be properly evaluated and offered an alternative education program.

(Special education students are entitled to have what is called an IEP, individual education program. Evaluations must be made and experts from various disciplines consulted. Parents also are entitled to participate in writing the IEP.)

Kennedy said a federal court of appeals decision issued in January applies to the Collinsville situation. He said the court ruled that termination of educational services (expulsion) constitutes a change in educational placement, which is supposed to involve special procedures and decisions made by special education staff members, rather than school board members.

"You don't hold a school meeting. They're not special educators," he stated.

Roy Schofield, director of special education for the Collinsville schools, disagrees, contending the argument could be used to return a special education student to school, even if he or she had been caught with a gun or a bomb.

Kennedy said he has sent a letter to the state superintendent of education, asking him to investigate the Collinsville expulsion. In that letter, Kennedy said the students' parents were not offered an alternative educational program until April 6. (Renfro said the alternative was offered the day after the expulsion.) No evaluation or special staff meeting was held before the student was suspended and expelled, Kennedy contended.

The parents rejected the alternate offers, which were: an hour of homebound instruction per day or placement in a day center for behaviorally disturbed children.

Parents of special education students who do not like what a district offers can seek the help of a legal advocate, such as Kennedy. The Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation gets government grant funds to pay for representing such people.

Parents can seek to change the district's offer in several different ways. One way is to seek a due process hearing from the State Board of Education. This method was rejected because it takes too long, the student has been out of school since March 23, Kennedy said.

Other alternatives are to complain to the State Board of Education, the U.S.

Board of Education, or take the district to court, Kennedy added.

The idea of alternative education does not sit well with Juvenile Officer Gage, who believes that some students in the Granite City schools may be intentionally misbehaving, just so they can get into the Coordinated Youth Services alternative education program, which is less "structured" than the classroom, he contends.

Perhaps another summarized the feelings of many when learning of the Collinsville case. She commented, "We are supposed to be teaching the special education students to live within society's rules, in the real world. How can we teach them to live within society's rules when they are letting them break those rules in school?"

Enrollment at SIE up

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is experiencing a 15 percent increase in new student enrollment this quarter over the figures reported last year for the same period, according to Eugene Magac, director of the Office of Admissions and Records.

While there have been significant increases in all three categories of new students, the greatest increase has been in the number of new students attending the University at the graduate level. Magac said there are 28.7 percent more students enrolled in graduate studies this quarter than at the same time last year, 14.8 percent more new freshmen, and an eight percent increase in new transfer students.

The overall increase in total enrollment for the University is approximately four percent, with increases occurring at almost all levels. The total on-campus enrollment for the spring quarter is 8,855, against last year's enrollment of 8,511.

Magac reported that there are increases in both full-time and part-time student enrollment, with almost all of the University's schools showing some percentage of increase in students. There are 5,866 full-time students attending classes at the University this quarter, against last year's figure of 5,613. Part-time students this quarter total 2,989, while there were only 2,903 attending last year during spring quarter.

According to headcount by class, there are increases in total freshmen, juniors, and seniors with the sophomore level remaining more or less constant with last year, Magac said.

This quarter's spring quarter class of freshmen number 1,824, and sophomores account for 1,506 students. The enrollment at the junior level stands at 1,635, and seniors number 1,958. In addition, there are 111 unclassified students, 1,663 graduate students, and 150 students enrolled in the Dental Medicine.

The admissions and records director attributes the increases to the University's efforts to recruit additional students and to retain those that are already enrolled in classes.

"Recruiting students is hard work. There is nothing magical about it. Students will tend to persist if the institution is delivering lively, exciting, learning, and growth experiences," Magac said.

Magac went on to say that students need help in developing their talents. "They want to sense that they are learning and that they are maturing intellectually and personally," he said.

In addition to receiving proper counseling and quality instruction, retaining students calls for closer relationships with people rather than with offices and personalization of procedures, Magac said.

Finalize area cleanup plan

"Think clean," will be the rule this week and next as Quad-City area residents prepare for the community-wide cleanup drive, which begins Saturday and will continue through Friday, May 1.

This will be the chance for residents to discard old washing machines, dryers, stoves, lawn mowers and other broken items which have been cluttering basements, garages and yards for lack of a proper disposal method. It also will be the chance to get rid of smaller items as scoops, volunteers and city employees prepare for a massive cleanup effort.

Hundreds of Boy and Girl Scouts will be coming Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach and the surrounding townships Saturday, cleaning streets, alleys and state roads. In return for their labors, the scouts will receive patches, certificates for free French fries from McDonalds and will receive Pepsi-Cola during their work.

McDonalds has donated 6,000 trash bags for the scouts to use this weekend. Next week, street department trucks in the cities will cover the streets and alleys, picking up trash and large items and SCA Service will be out to haul trash to the landfill on Chouteau Island. SCA officials Ron Ross and Jim Stogdill of the REACT team have offered their services Saturday in case of an emergency. REACT can be reached on CB radio Channel 3, if an emergency is seen.

Residents may begin stacking trash and large items near alleys at the rear of homes this weekend and should call their appropriate street department for when the items are ready to be picked up.

For homes which do not have alleys in the back, the items should be stacked between the streets and the sidewalks, but caution should be used to keep the items from falling or hanging into the streets, where they would present a hazard to traffic.

The numbers to arrange pickups of large items may be called, beginning Monday morning, and pickups will follow as rapidly as possible. Granite City residents should call 482-8222, Madison residents may call 876-8989, the number for Venice residents is 877-0520, in Namekott Township, the number is 931-1290, and Chouteau Township residents may call 931-0233.

Vandals damage 2 homes

The home of the Daniel Monroe family at 2324 Cardinal Ave., which had sustained serious damage in the April 3 tornado, was further damaged by vandals, who also stole a number of items, in an incident reported at 9:15 p.m. Friday.

Monroe said the thieves sprayed black paint on kitchen cabinets and the interior walls and threw garbage throughout the house.

A portable radio, a dwelling were a toaster oven, set of dishes, a portable stereo and two speakers, between 50 and 75 record albums, a coffeemaker, steam iron, pots and pans, new toy vacuum sweeper, 10 gallons of latex paint, a box of curtains, a portable fan, Christmas tree lights and ornaments and a portable radio.

In an unrelated home vandalism case, Howard Tomlin, 2148 Adams St., arrived home at 11 a.m. Friday to find the front door open and his house, car and motorcycle damaged by vandals.

The intruders had turned up the furnace to its highest heat, poured water over the floors and walls and sprayed the walls with paint.

Curtains were pulled from the windows and stereo equipment was knocked to the floor and damaged.

Tomlin said glasses and dishes were broken, as well as a coffee pot, and two sets of keys were stolen.

A motorcycle in the rear yard and his parked auto also had been spray painted, he told officers.

Energy use reduced under state program

Illinois schools, hospitals and other institutions have cut energy use substantially with the aid of a state-sponsored energy conservation program, Governor James R. Thompson has announced.

Schools that had energy audits performed, for example, saved an estimated $7 million in energy costs during the 1978-80 school year, the governor said. Over the next five years, the savings will swell to a total of $47 million.

"The Institutional Energy Conservation Program has been very successful and popular," Governor Thompson said. "It illustrates the benefits, in this case to the taxpayers of the state, that come from making more efficient use of energy."

The institutional conservation program is operated by the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources, the state energy agency. The program provides financial assistance in the form of matching grants to aid several types of institutions in identifying and implementing energy conservation activities in their buildings.

Grants are available to public and private non-profit schools, hospitals, public institutions, and local governments. The funds may be used for:

Energy audits. Buildings are inspected to identify changes that could save energy including hours of operation, maintenance procedures, and physical characteristics.

Technical assistance analyses. After an energy audit has been completed, a detailed analysis determines the specific costs and energy savings that would result from making physical changes, such as the addition of insulation or modifications to heating systems.

Energy conservation measures. Grants may be used to design, purchase and install energy conservation equipment or to make changes in building structures to reduce energy use.

All of the institutions described earlier are eligible to apply to the Institute of Natural Resources for energy audit funds or for technical assistance. Only schools and hospitals may apply for energy conservation measure funding.

The grant funds are disbursed by the U.S. Department of Energy with funds going to each state on a proportional basis. The Institute reviews and ranks applications for technical assistance and conservation measure grants and makes recommendations to the Department of Energy as to the level of funding for each grant.

Grants have been awarded on two occasions, and a third cycle of grant awards will be made soon. To date, 272 Illinois institutions have been awarded $2.6 million in technical assistance grants, and 95 schools and hospitals have received over $10 million to pay for conservation measures.

Energy audits have been conducted in over 6,000 institutional buildings in Illinois; nearly half of all hospitals and public and private schools were audited in the program's first year.

Typically, administrators and other personnel from institutions applying for grants participate in seminars where they learn to conduct energy audits.

"This makes the people in charge more aware of energy use and conservation opportunities," Governor Thompson said.

"And maintenance personnel who take energy audit training learn to run their buildings more efficiently."

"This leads to big savings in energy at the beginning and then additional day-to-day savings," the governor added.

Although schools and hospitals are eager to win grant awards, Governor Thompson noted, the energy audits and audit training offer perhaps the most widespread and long-lasting tools for conserving energy, and these elements of the program are highly cost-effective.

After one year of operation, schools had saved $7 million in energy costs; $1.6 million in public funds had been invested, meaning there had been a 400 percent return. A projection of costs and benefits over a five-year period calculates a return of $18 in benefits for every $1 of cost.

GC linkages director invited to Washington

By VALERIE EVENEDEN

of the Press-Record

Shirley Blasingame, project director of the "Linkages in Progress" pilot program in Granite City, has been invited by the U.S. Department of Education to participate in a series of workshops and information sharing meetings to be held in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Blasingame will be in Washington tomorrow through Friday. She will be accompanied by Robert White, "Linkages in Progress" state program director, and Nancy McIlroy of the Illinois State Board of Education.

Coordinated Youth Services of Granite City was awarded a $188,265 grant earlier this year to conduct a "Linkages" pilot program in Madison County to improve the health and employment of area youth.

This region was one of only 10 areas throughout the nation to be selected for the special project.

The "Linkages" program is being co-sponsored by the Madison County Educational Service Region and the Madison County Office of Manpower Development, with assistance from the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMAPC) and the Consortium of Vocational Educators and Employers (COVEE).

Concept of the program is to test the feasibility of developing positive attitudes toward work and education, involving youth who previously have not been able to adjust to a typical education setting. C. A. "Bud" McMillan Jr., CYS executive director, explained.

The program's overall goal is to promote linkages among education, training and employment systems for the ultimate benefit of area youth.

The program also promotes the economic health of the community.

The term "linkages" is defined as connecting separate systems to promote coordination and increase joint effectiveness.

A total of 40 CETA-eligible youths is able to take part in the program here.

Job development at an early stage and learning what industry and business have to offer are among the program benefits.

Preparing for job interviews, learning how they can enter apprenticeship programs and discovering their job interests are also part of "linkages."

The program is designed to build upon already existing accomplishments between high school vocational education and the CETA education training systems, and to further coordinate and coordinate

SHIRLEY BLASINGAME

Warns against 'crippling' tax on U.S. barge industry

Legislation just introduced in Congress would be grossly unfair and crippling to the nation's barge transportation industry, the head of one of the largest barge operations said Thursday.

Thomas J. Barta, president of the St. Louis-based Valley Line Company, the nation's third largest inland barge operator and subsidiary of Chromalloy American Corporation, leveled the charge in remarks at a Missouri Highway and Transportation Commission Conference in Jefferson City, Mo.

Barta took issue with two bills introduced April 1 in the U.S. House of Representatives which would effectively eliminate into effect only last October, replacing it with a tax seven to eight times more than the present levy, he said. Other forms of transportation—railroads, truck lines and other common carriers—would not be affected by the measure.

The proposed legislation, H.R. 2869 and 2862, would abruptly eliminate all federal aid to commercial barge traffic and require user fees to provide for full recovery of operation, maintenance and construction costs on the inland waterways after Oct. 1, 1981.

The present waterway user tax was passed in 1976 and became effective in 1980. It levies a four-cent-per-gallon fuel tax now, which will escalate to 10 cents per gallon by 1985. Any further escalation was to have come only after Congress studied the impact of the tax, including the dimension of competitive equity between the various modes of transportation, Barta said.

"The new measure before Congress ruins any prospect for competitive equity with railroads and other associated industries not included."

"If I can say to my friends in the barge industry that all traffic would pay and that competitive equity would be assured, I remove a natural objective. However, if I say that your (barge) traffic will pay beginning in October of this year but that aids to your competitors may or may not be eliminated some time in the future or their traffic may or may not be required to pay as well, then I have a considerable problem," said Barta.

"Clearly, there must be firm linkage between a charge on barge commercial traffic and a charge on rail commercial traffic for federal aid if the pledge of even-handed treatment is to be observed," he continued.

Barta urged that in-progress studies of the economic and competitive impact of the current waterway user tax be completed and that legislation be enacted, and that the fuel tax presently applied to barge lines should also be applied to railroads.

He noted that while barge lines and railroads traditionally have been vigorous competitors, "We also tend to be each other's best customers. Railroads bring coal and grain to riverbanks and barges take it from there. Chemicals, fertilizers and many other commodities come up from the Gulf by barge and the railroads take the traffic from the riverbank. Rail-water cooperation is increasing," he said.

Arts show set at HS South

The arts and band departments at Granite City High School South are coordinating their efforts to present a Fine Arts Festival at the school on Tuesday, April 28, scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m.

The art department are planning exhibits of students' works done throughout the school year which include drawings, paintings, ceramics, oil paintings, jewelry, sculpture and printmaking. All three art rooms will be open for the scheduled time where undergraduate art work will be displayed.

Graduating seniors with majors in art will have their own individual displays set up in their main hallways at the school.

The concert band will perform its final concert of the year in the auditorium at 8 p.m. A variety of musical arrangements will be featured during the hour-long presentation. Admission to the concert will be 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

First Presbyterian anniversary celebration

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

Many memories and discussions of various events leading to the 75th anniversary of the First United Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue, will be foremost in the minds of the congregation as they participate in the celebration to begin with a catered dinner on Wednesday, April 22, at the church.

During the preceding months members of the church have been working diligently to collect pictures, memorabilia, newspaper clippings and programs preserved through the years to be displayed at the church hall for all to view and reminisce the growth of the church and its religious activities.

On Sunday, April 26, there will be one worship service only at 10 a.m. to be followed by the afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock with a tea.

The original idea for a Presbyterian church in Granite City started in February 1906 at a series of weekly meetings attended by 25 people. They met in the Kinder's Hook Church at 20th and Benton streets where the present Emerson School now stands.

The Rev. J. L. Koll of Madison presided over the meeting and a committee, consisting of J. C. Reingold, Peter Johnson, Mrs. W. J. Biel, Mrs. M. I. Todd and Miss Hattie Parr, was appointed to canvass the area and submit a report on their findings the following week.

Dr. Milton Page held weekly afternoon services and in April 1906 he presented to the Alton Presbytery a petition signed by 112 people, requesting that they be organized as a Presbyterian Church. The request was granted and a Presbytery committee headed by Rev. Walter Bradley, the stated clerk of the Presbytery, met with the petitioners on Easter Sunday, April 15, 1906, and on that day the church was duly organized.

On Dec. 30 of the same year, Dr. Page was formally called as pastor of the church and continued to serve until November 1908.

During the growing years of the church other pastors who served the local congregation included, Dr. Wallace Waits from Jan. 27, 1909, until April 1913 when Dr. Simon McDonald became minister until July 1914.

Other pastors were, Rev. E. M. Chuskey from July 1914 to 1920, Rev. Clinton D. Bowman, 1920 to 1925, Rev. John H. Sanders, 1925 until September 1936 and Dr. A. Ralph Lynn, September 1936 until Dec. 31, 1957.

The Rev. Dr. David B. Maxton followed Rev. Lynn and is still the pastor of the local church, now assisted by Robert C. Landes.

Religious music, an integral part of most church services, was important to the Presbyterian congregation and Mrs. Virginia Moore served as director of the choir until June 1967.

In June 1967, Mrs. Isable Schmidt, a lifelong member of the church, accepted the position of choir director. A year later Kenneth McClatchey retired as organist and Mrs. Schmidt became the choir director and organist for all six choirs.

She served in that capacity until September of 1968 when Keith Curtis was hired as Sanctuary and Chancel Choir director and Mrs. Schmidt continued to lead the children's choirs.

Curtis resigned in 1973 and since then their directors has included June Branding, Sondra Waffler, Debbie Hightower, Kathy McCalla, Gail Hamilton, Jerri Johnson with Mrs. Nina Gerard and Cindy Johnson, presently serving as choir directors.

The material growth of the church progressed at a steady pace and on May 26, 1907, the stone basement was dedicated. In 1915 the sanctuary proper was begun and completed the following year.

During Dr. Bowman's pastorate an extensive decoration was completed to the interior of the building, including the installation of pews and the outside trim was painted.

The continued growth of the church was noted in 1924 with the membership registration passing the 450 mark.

Its scope of work was enlarged and the demands on it increased to such an extent that each year a larger budget was adopted. In 1924 the budget had an expenditure of some $10,000 and the 1965 budget was set at $93,538.

Six years later, under the pastoral leadership of Rev. Sanders, an educational fund was completed and dedicated. The Rev. A.

Price pledges support to hospice legislative bill

Cong. Melvin Price of this 23rd district and State Reps. Sam Wolf of Granite City and Monroe Ffilm of Cahokia were among federal and state officials attending a reception here Thursday to discuss ways new legislation may aid Hospice in caring for terminally ill patients.

The reception was held in the cafeteria of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, sponsored by Hospice of Madison bill that has been introduced in the House which would declare "terminally ill patients on disability and qualify them for Medicare under the Social Security act."

Such a measure, if passed, could assure up to $40 in Medicare benefits for each visit by a nurse. Hospice now charges $1 to $11 a visit, depending upon family income.

Hospice officials at the reception who discussed the matter with Price, state and local officials included Dr. Shabbir Safdar, founder of the program to provide home care for terminally ill patients, and Randall Irwin of the Hospice board.

Price promised he would aid the Hospice program and "do everything I can to help the legislation."

Also attending the reception and participating in the discussion were Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City and Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison. Others included Chief of Police Don Bridick and Comptroller Al Hudzik, both of Madison; Dave Nolan, administrative assistant of the Granite City and Nick Petrillo, city treasurer of Granite City.

Representatives of Belleville's two hospitals also were in attendance to learn details of the Madison County program with a view toward establishing Hospice Wine labels are birth certificates telling the origin (country, region and sometimes even the vineyard), or the type of wine used for the wine. A label assists a wine drinker in determining the wine's characteristics. Most European wines are named for the region in which they are grown. Chablis and Sauternes are wine-producing villages in France while Sauternes and Chablis are regions in Italy. Other wines are named for the grape variety used to make the wine. California wines are usually designated with varietal (grape variety) names. Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Noir and Zinfandel, etc. Less expensive, but still good, are wines labeled with generic names. Adopting well-known European place-names, these wines have similar characteristics to the ones whose names they have borrowed and are produced in California. Chablis, others are labeled with proprietary names (trade names) better known than the origin of the producer. Blue Nun, for example, is a wine produced by the Kaiser Brewery, Lake Huron, Mich. Knowing how to read a wine label can be an education benefiting the student.

2-year rainfall figures 17 inches below normal

The drought in much of the U.S. farm belt has taken on near frightening dimensions, data from an agricultural weather station at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale suggests.

Data collected daily over the past two years indicate that Southern Illinois is at least 17 inches behind normal in rainfall for the past year. Plant and soil scientist Keith Leasure of the SIUC School of Agriculture's 40-year average rainfall base for the area.

"What I found is almost frightening," he said. "Almost every month since January, 1980, when we were in pretty good shape as far as soil moisture was concerned, we have had a short month for rainfall."

"There have been some months with more than average or normal rainfall, but taken altogether, we are falling behind. There is no change in the falling trend line at any point over the past year or more," Leasure said.

Other information indicates that much of Illinois shares the problem of extended drought. A recent report by the Illinois Cooperative Crop Reporting Service listed 87 percent of the state's farmers reporting soil moisture in short supply. In parts of Southern Illinois 100 percent of the reporting farmers noted inadequate soil moisture conditions. Agronomists say as much as 15 inches of rain is necessary to grow a corn crop in Illinois. Given a current shortage of 17 inches, it could require more than 30 inches of rain, or nearly the rainfall to be expected in a full year, for a normal crop season in 1981.

But Leasure says the soil may not require extended periods of abnormally heavy rains to recharge. "Eventually, normal rainfall would replenish the soil moisture, but we have to have that over a long period. And the trend now is not toward normal rainfall periods," Leasure said.

Krekovich on dean's list, named captain

John Krekovich Jr. has been named to the dean's list for academic achievement at Northern Illinois University at DeKalb for the third consecutive year.

He has been a starting player for the NIU varsity soccer team for the past three years and recently was named captain of the soccer squad for next season.

Krekovich compiled a 3.36 scholastic average while taking business courses in marketing, finance and management.

To attain the dean's list, he was required to be among the top 10 percent of business majors in the categories of accounting, finance, marketing and management.

NIU's Business College is one of 106 universities in the United States, whose business school is accredited at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Krekovich, 21, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John (Lore) Krekovich, 3600 Wabash Ave. He is an active member of Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE) social fraternity at Northern.

He is a 1978 graduate of Granite City High School South, where he was a member of South's state championship soccer team. As the next captain of Northern's soccer squad, Krekovich is following in the footsteps of two other former Granite City South's players.

After graduating from Northern in May 1982, the young man hopes to continue his education in graduate school at St. Louis University or Washington University.

Local bowling league becoming '300' haven

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press Record
GRANITE CITY — Perfection is a hard thing to accomplish. Everyone would like to try and be perfect in what they do. It's not always that easy. However, some bowlers at Bowland Lanes in Granite City seem to come very close to that trait everytime they step on to the lanes.

It's thrilling to watch someone bowl a 300 game. It's almost artistry in motion. It's 12 straight strikes. It looks nice and sometimes it's easier than one might think. Or at least the members of the H.J. Shannon Painting team believe so.

The seven-man team is comprised of Don Shannon, Gary Rich, Dave Hunk, Steve Bradbury, Adron Cahill, Don Ray and Terry Clark. Of these men, Rich, Hunk and Bradbury have thrown AT LEAST one 300 game. According to Bowland's general manager Chuck Blume, 300 games aren't the toughest to achieve.

"Bowling a 300 game is hard," said Blume. "But throwing an 800 series is more difficult." The series is a total of three games, which for each game, Easter said than done, right. But one member of the Shannon team has even done this.

Just two weeks ago on April 4 at Bowland, Hunk rolled games of 276, 268 and 278 for an 822 series. During that night also, the Shannon team of Bradbury at a 634 series, Cahill at 690, Rich at 708, Ray at 613 and Hunk's score unofficially recorded the fourth best team score in the nation at 3585. It broke their sixth ranked total of 3571 set back in October of 1980.

The bowling ability of these seven men is remarkable. To add to this feat, Bradbury has rolled three 300 games, Rich has two to his credit and Hunk has thrown one. In the 3571 series, Don Shannon came up short with a 299 game. But these men, who considered by many as one of the best teams in the St. Louis area, aren't the only ones burning up the lanes at Bowland. Since the fall season, which began in August of last year, Don Haddix and John Nolan in December, Allan Newberry in January, Sam Manogian in February, Randy Chot and Bernard Simmons in March, Wayne Lungsford, Dwight Gassett (19 years old) and Dave Dupont this month have all rolled 300 games. During the season also, Norv Baker threw an 805 series last October.

And in a two month period of June and July in the spring season last year, Randy Odom, Glenn Wilson, Chuck Mazzola, Bill Samsone, Steve Siegel and Greg Voss each bowled a 300 game. These six and the incredible 16 during the current fall season, all at Bowland, adds up to an awful lot of good bowlers. But, is it the bowlers or just Bowland?

"This house (Bowland) has been noted for shooting big scores," said Don Shannon. "I think sometimes it's the way they treat the lanes. They want good scores." Manager Blume feels the same way.

"According to the American Bowling Congress (ABC), our lanes meet to there specifications," said Blume. "If you get too many good scores, they think something's wrong. But we take extremely good care of the lanes."

Blume noted that three most important things that makes the atmosphere for good bowling is how the machines run, the lane conditions and the cleanliness of the house. "If the machines don't work right, you can't bowl," said Blume. "You have to have good lanes to bowl well and if the place looks bad, people won't want to come in. But I have to give recognition, it's the bowlers."

Blume does tend very well to the lanes. Just last August, before the fall season was to begin, the lanes at Bowland were sanded down and resealed. The first night of play on the newly finished lanes, Steve Bradbury rolled a 300 game. Another incident focused on Bernard Simmons, who had come away from World War II with an arm injury. His doctors told him the two things he wasn't going to be able to do was use a hammer and bowl. In March at Bowland, Simmons threw a 300 game.

So, why at Bowland and not some other bowling lane? "Most of the good bowlers in the St. Louis area come out here because they know they can throw big scores," said Hunk. "Almost 99 percent of the time I can step onto a lane and throw strikes, but

Biology project gives first-hand knowledge

Do frogs have teeth? How are the organ systems of a frog similar to those of other vertebrates and what can you learn about the structure and function of higher organisms by dissecting frogs?

Most of the answers were discovered by pupils in the Intermediate Idea Lab at Niedringhaus School while performing various activities during the past two weeks.

The biology project, usually reserved for high school students, was carried out under the supervision of team teachers, Mrs. Julia Mateosian and Mrs. Chris Hoff, with the assistance of Principal Harry Briggs.

Liz Weckback and Myles Epperson delve deeper into the dissecting procedure.

Trying to expand a frog's lungs, at lower left, are Julie Hellrich, Gina Roddy, using a straw, Mrs. Mateosian, Catherine Aleman and Michelle Tillman.

At lower right, Kerry Martin, Mrs. Hoff and James Barron are observing the position of the frog's tongue.

Other students taking part in the project were Liz Oyen, Becky Burmeister, Eddie Bodnam, Keith Tester, Claudia Kachigian and Debbie Burmeister.

The Idea Labs in District 9 are under the direction of Mrs. Merna Musterman, coordinator of the Gifted Program.

Granite City has been cited as one of 24 districts having an exemplary program throughout the state.

Illinois Power uses byproduct for industrial park road job

Illinois Power Co. poured the first lane of a two-lane access road into the company's Northgate Industrial Park in Granite City last week.

Flyash from the company's Wood River power station is being used in the construction project. Each lane is 1,100 feet in length.

Flyash is one of the by-products left after coal is burned at utility generating stations. It is a non-combustible, light-weight ash that is caught in electrostatic precipitators at Illinois Power's generating stations. Flyash is a pozzolanic material that reacts with lime to form a slow-hardening cement.

"Illinois Power is excited about the use of flyash in construction projects," said W. E. Warren, Illinois Power vice president.

He said it is not the first time that Illinois Power had used flyash from its Wood River station for company construction projects.

In 1964 Illinois Power used flyash for concrete used in the construction of Unit 5 at Wood River, and later in the foundations and stacks of Units 1, 2 and 3 at the Baldwin power station.

Warren said the company is planning to market flyash as a result of its successes in using the by-product in their construction projects.

Flyash is also currently being used by various states in highway construction and high-rise commercial construction activity. The Sears Tower in Chicago, for example, was constructed with the use of flyash as an additive to the concrete.

In the road pour last week, approximately 50 tons of flyash were delivered by truck from the Wood River station to the Kienstra Concrete Co. for blending with portland cement for the project.

C. D. Peters Construction Company is the road contractor, and Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab, Inc. is the consulting engineering firm for the project.

Warren said Illinois Power made a major commitment during 1980 in the Tri-Cities area to help offset the loss of manufacturing jobs and the eroding tax base within the area. The company is about to complete the initial development of 427 acres of company-owned property at Granite City into the Northgate Industrial Park. This property is being fully developed for commercial and industrial use.

Phase one of the Park's development was initiated last year with the location of Precast Metals Division, American Chromalloy Corporation, into the Park. Precast Metals is currently building a 115,500 square foot steel coating facility at Northgate. A second firm, Siderex Supply Company, will soon be constructing a distribution facility within the industrial park. Phase one of the park's development is expected to be totally occupied by the end of this decade with more than 1,000 new permanent jobs created for area residents, Warren said.

The concrete pavement used in the road project at Northgate contained a mixture of one part of flyash to five parts of portland cement, a water reducing admixture, and an air entrainment admixture.

Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) specifications for portland cement concrete pavement require a flexural strength of 660 pounds per square inch and a compressive strength of 3,500 pounds per square inch.

"Flyash can be used in concrete in an environmentally sound manner," said Warren.

"Flyash was selected for use in this road project due to several positive factors. When flyash is added to concrete mixtures as a partial substitute for cement, it produces a lighter, more pliable concrete to work with, a more durable and stronger material, and one which is easier to place and finish."

Concrete in which flyash is used also tends to become stronger over a long period of time, whereas the strength of regular concrete does not increase substantially beyond 90 days. Flyash also makes highway construction more economical since lesser amounts of portland cement are required in the concrete composition of the road project. Flyash sells for about $12 a ton compared to $60 a ton for portland cement.

The second lane of Illinois Power's access road to Northgate will be poured April 20.

ILLINOIS BELL EXECUTIVE Betsy Ann Plank, vice president—Corporate Communications, urges BPW members to encourage young women to attain management skills by serving as role models, to improve work relationships and further their own professional development. At left is Granite City BPW President Rosalie Stern, supervisor of the Illinois Bell Phone Center in Granite City.

Bell exec speaks at BPW awards banquet

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Traditional perceptions about women in business still frequently stand in the way of attaining one's goals, but great strides have been made to alleviate some of the misconceptions concerning women in executive roles, Betsy Ann Plank, Illinois Bell assistant vice president—Corporate Communications, told a group of more than 50 business and professional women last week.

Miss Plank spoke at the Granite City Business and Professional Women's annual Public Relations and Awards Night banquet at Sunset Hills Country Club. The event also was highlighted with the presentation of BPW continuing education scholarships to two women and served to honor area media representatives.

Awarded the scholarship grants were the Rev. Charlotte "Chris" Zachary, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church in Madison, who is working toward her doctorate degree at Eden Seminary, St. Louis, and Janice Stern, a registered nurse, who is in the graduate studies program at St. Louis University.

Both grant recipients are members of the Granite City BPW Club.

Noting the "triumph of technology" achieved through the safe landing of the space shuttle last Monday, Miss Plank compared the breakthrough with her flight from Washington to St. Louis, which was two hours late.

"This portends a lot in the world today, and occurred despite my horoscope for today stating I would have Luck through travel," she commented.

The speaker commended the local BPW club for its many programs, especially in areas involving students, professional development and aiding in the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

She said women in business today, also are responsible for making critical decisions about themselves.

"She must not think of herself as a 'woman manager,' but as a 'manager.'"

"It is self defeating to dwell on obstacles one has encountered in the business world in the past, or those obstacles that are imagined."

"Sometimes we can be overly sensitive to misinterpretation of comments."

"I personally don't get hung up about vocabulary. Whether or not it is chairman or chairwoman or person, I don't care. These kinds of things don't bother me."

"What is important is equal pay for equal work and promotions made on merit," Miss Plank stated.

"Not being part of the 'old boy's network,' which runs from the men's room to the cafeteria. Or who you know and who is doing this and that, and what moves are being made, really doesn't matter too much," Miss Plank said.

She noted her involvement with The Chicago Network, an organization of the 100 leading women executives in the Chicago metropolitan area, of which she is the current chairman, as being greatly beneficial in meeting individuals from many fields—business, professional and the arts.

"This is the same kind of encounter with others from different fields that you get in this organization," she said.

"I would recommend that any woman in business today, who is planning to get married, should marry a saint."

"Marry someone who is supportive of your goals, as well as his own," she urged,

"Today, marriage is not the end of a career," she stressed.

Miss Plank is married to Sherman V. Rosenfield, who she referred to as "a saint."

She urged BPW members to serve as role models for younger women and to work even harder with students, "enabling them to see a whole range of careers open ahead."

To continue programs in the development of management skills and to recognize pioneers among women in the business and professional world.

"Let us look back to our roots. There were whole generations of women in the 1830's, the 1940's and even the 1950's, who really bootstrapped it."

"Let us remember them and say—she really did a magnificent job."

Miss Plank spoke of the importance of working with such groups as the Girl Scouts.

She serves on the board of the Girl Scouts of America and as vice president of the Girl Scouts of Chicago, which named her Volunteer of the Year in 1980.

She is the only person to have served as president of four public relations organizations in the Chicago area and is active in numerous civic endeavors, including being a trustee of the YWCA and president of the Association Settlement House and United Christian Church, a coalition of nine community agencies.

Currently at Illinois Bell, she is in charge of employee communications—print, video-CCTV productions and face-to-face communications—which serves the company's 39,000 active employees and 13,000 retired employees.

During the program, musical selections were presented by Sue Ellen Houseman of Carrollton, Ill., a vocalist and guitarist, who was well received.

Rosalie Stern, BPW president, offered the welcome and introduced the guests.

The Rev. Zachary gave the invocation and Ruth Nicholas led the pledge to the flag.

Honored with "Pro" awards for enrolling three or more new members in the club during 1980-81 were Lela Gunning, Ollie Derr, Emylee Alford and Mrs. Stern.

HONOR MINISTER. The Rev. Charlotte Zachary, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church of Madison, expresses her appreciation to the local BPW club upon receiving a scholarship grant to help continue her studies toward a doctoral degree at Eden Seminary. At left is Eleanor Buchanan, BPW District 14 public relations director.

PROFESSIONAL singer and guitarist Sue Ellen Houseman from the Carrollton (Ill.) Business and Professional Women's Club, whose song is similar to Anne Murray, performs at the Granite City BPW's annual public relations and awards night dinner at the Sunset Hills Country Club. Sixty members and guests from the media attended.

Those responsible for arranging last week's awards dinner were Patti Crockarell, chairman, Sharon Beckett, Ruth Bradley, Diane Capps, Carolyn Frye, Paul Case, Anna Mae Gates, Linda Irwin, Pearl Kennedy, Jan Livingston, Janet Mills, Bette Nugent, LaVelle Stephens, Pearl Wright, Barbara Young and Mrs. Nicholas.

Barta predicted that the trend would continue, sparked by the export of U.S. coal from reserves in Mid-America to Europe and Asia and the steady expansion of grain exports abroad, resulting in tens of millions of tons of new traffic for the Mississippi River in the future.

David Schreiber at Sheppard

Airman David L. Schreiber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max H. Schreiber of 2109 Missouri Ave., Granite City, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field.

MAY REAPPOINTED Governor James R. Thompson has been appointed as a member of the Bi-State Development Agency Roy A. May, Waterloo, who is semi-retired, for a term ending in January 1986. The non-salaried position does not require Illinois Senate confirmation.

Nameoki electors vote to continue road tax

A special hard road tax of 16½ cents per $100 of assessed valuation will continue for the next five years in Nameoki Township, the town's electors decided on a 30 to 25 vote at the annual town meeting last week.

The tax, which is in addition to the regular road and bridge tax, must be approved each five years by the electors at an annual town meeting, or it is eliminated by the county clerk.

Town Clerk Douglas Teator explained before the voting that the special hard road tax has been in continuous existence for more than 20 years in the township and that voting for the tax would not increase tax bills, but would continue the tax to which the residents had become accustomed.

Highway Commissioner Frank Mehlich urged approval of continuing the tax, saying his department needs the money badly. Teator said the tax brings in between $90,000 and $100,000 a year for the maintenance, repair and drainage of roads.

He said that in addition to the 16½-cent special hard road tax, voters pay 12½ cents for the road and bridge fund and a 4-cent greater tax approved by the town board, for a road and bridge total of 33½ cents.

For a $30,000 house, assessed at $10,000 (one-third of market value), the road and bridge fund will result in a tax of $16.50 per year and the special hard road tax will total $16.70 a year, for a total of $33.20 for the township highway department.

Teator explained that collection of the special hard road fund tax approved Tuesday night will not begin until the summer of 1982, after the last five-year authorization of the special tax does not expire until this year.

The vote was by secret ballot. Fifty-eight persons voted and there were three spoiled ballots. The tax then was approved 30 to 25.

In other business, the electors (all registered voters residing in the township) selected Trustee W. Lee Adams as moderator for the meeting and approved a motion earmarking $30,000 in federal revenue sharing funds for the highway department to continue the environmental cleanup and health programs.

The motions are not binding, but will be considered by the town board when it prepares the revenue sharing budget for the fiscal year.

The actions officially transferred $24,000 in revenue sharing funds to the highway department for trash and limb collection and $6,000 for health projects. The township board of trustees is to control the money and oversee the projects, the electors agreed.

Adams explained that the town board normally advances $2,000 a month to the highway department for the environmental cleanup program, but has the option of withholding the payments for any month when the program is not considered acceptable.

The $6,000 is released by the board of a project-by-project basis when health problems are noted and the highway commissioner agrees to have his department correct them.

Mehlich objected to the slow release of the funds by the town board, saying his department should collect the interest on the invested funds, rather than the town board.

Teator responded, "That's just taking it from one pocket and putting it into another."

Mehlich also objected that the township is behind in its payments for the environmental cleanup program now, which necessitated borrowing by the highway department to meet its payroll. Teator said because the township has not yet passed its new budgets for this fiscal year and said all past-due payments would be made when the new budgets are approved.

Teator also explained that the money appropriated for the environmental cleanup and health programs has not yet been received nor budgeted. "So many revenue sharing projects came in the other night, the board is going to have to decide how to fund them," he warned.

The electors approved the supervisor's annual report for the 1980-81 fiscal year, which ended Feb. 28. It shows receipts to the town fund of $221,201 during the year, disbursements of $216,814 and a balance at the end of the year of $35,296.

In the revenue sharing fund, receipts totaled $92,909, disbursements were $89,934 and the balance at the end of the year was $17,974.

A total of $88,477 was received for the municipal retirement fund during the year, $53,255 was expended, and the balance was $35,222 at the end of the year, the report shows.

In the general assistance fund, receipts totaled $89,607, disbursements were $40,633 and the balance was $48,973.

In the road and bridge fund, receipts totaled $196,165, disbursements were $181,079 and the balance was $5,106.

In the special hard road fund, $133,738 was received, $131,283 was spent and the balance was $12,511.

It was noted there also is a balance of $176 in the special bridge fund.

While the highway department's balances total $17,793, the department has incurred liabilities of $15,349, leaving only $2,444 at the end of the fiscal year.

BAC board hikes tuition; ok's specialist program for GC Steel

The Belleville Area College Board of Trustees approved a tuition increase of $1 for the 1981-82 school year last week.

The increase is in keeping with a 5-year plan to raise tuition by $1 a year. The hike brings tuition to $17 per credit hour; it will go into effect at the beginning of the fall 1981 term.

James J. Hines, vice president, administrative services estimated the tuition increase will generate $107,000. That money will be used in an attempt to balance the college budget in the face of reductions in state aid proposed by Gov. James Thompson, Hines said.

The board also approved increases in lab fees for some courses while eliminating them for several others.

The board also adopted a four-point charge to the presidential search committee.

The committee, chaired by board member John Becker and composed of BAC student, staff and faculty representatives, and civic leaders, will submit a list of no less than four and no more than seven candidates to the board. Candidates for president will be advised that the position will pay between $40,000 and $55,000 for the 1981-82 school year. The current salary is $49,000.

In a third charge, to the search committee, the board of trustees agreed all public comment on actions of that committee will come from Becker. Board Chairman Robert Dintelmann said appointing Becker the sole spokesman for the committee would ensure information released was consistent and not confusing.

In a final directive to the committee, the board voted to have all expenses of the search charged to the board of trustees' budget but kept separate from other board expenses.

In other business the board approved a request to establish an industrial control specialist program.

The program was requested by Granite City Steel Co. and will be offered at their mill in Granite City. It is not anticipated courses that are part of this program will be taught on the college's main campus, BAC Acting President Dr. Bruce Wisore said.

"We're serving a specific need at the mill with this program," Dr. Wisore said. The program will be offered beginning in the fall of 1981, he added.

Certificates for 32 hours of work and associate of applied science degrees for 64 hours will be awarded. Graduates of the program will be placed in local industry with the largest employer to be Granite City Steel Co.

It is anticipated 15 students will enroll in the courses during the first year. They will be offered on a part-time basis in the evenings.

Enrollment is expected to double the second year and jump to 75 during the third year, the proposal says.

The "Occupational Outlook Handbook" states that the electrical industry will be expanding its work force in the next few years and the demand for control specialists will continue to increase.

During the first year, a instructor who will work 1/4 time will be hired, the proposal says.

The board also approved an administration recommendation that Don Koleson, currently Coordinator of Training and Construction Management, be appointed Supervisor of Aviation and Assigned Programs.

Koleson replaces Don Chapman who will serve as Project Coordinator of Aviation and Assigned Programs and as a classroom instructor.

The board approved an extension of terms of current board officers until the November election. Selection of board officers previously had been due at the April meeting because trustee elections were held that month. However, under a statewide measure to consolidate elections, trustees will be elected in November.

The term of the board's attorney also was extended to November.

Port board awards railroad contract

The Tri-City Port Authority in a meeting last week approved a motion to award a contract for railroad maintenance and in another motion increased its overall liability insurance.

The railroad maintenance contract went to American Track & Supply Co. of Venice on a scale of cost that will be incurred only when work is done. No fixed figure or estimate was announced.

The maintenance contract was held last year by Kelly Track & Supply Co. of St. Louis.

The board took no action on awarding a contract for construction of a new office facility. Carl Randt, manager of the Port District, said a special meeting of the board probably will be called to award the contract for which the district has seven bids ranging from $427,711 by C.D. Peters Construction Co., to a total of $692,000 by S.M. Wilson Co.

STUDENT ELECTED Elizabeth Gain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gain, 2665 E. 28th St., Granite City, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the American Chemical Society at Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington. Bids for the office structure received the bids in an earlier meeting. Although 22 sets of specifications were obtained, only seven placed a bid.

They were turned over to Port Engineer Jerry Lavelle for study and a recommendation and the board authorized the architect to study the bids to see if specifications were followed.

Randt said that according to a report by Oscar Nazetta the port is considered a landlord to its tenants and therefore could be responsible for liability incurred by its tenants.

Summer school for gifted and talented

The Granite City Board of Education last week established a summer school for talented and gifted young people, in cooperation with the Illinois State (Belleville Area) Service Center for Gifted and Talented.

"The Illinois state gifted program is making a special effort to create opportunities for enrichment programs for highly motivated gifted and creative children during the summer of 1981," the board was told by Merna M. Musterman, Granite City School District gifted coordinator.

"We will provide a center in Granite City for the convenience of our many gifted students. Members of the Granite City Council for Gifted Children have voiced interest, fully realizing such a program must be self-supporting, unlike the previous state-subsidized enrichment summer school classes."

"Eligibility will be limited to identified gifted students currently enrolled in kindergarten through the seventh grade and residing in our district. The parochial schools also have been contacted; to date, the three Catholic schools have agreed to supply a list of students whose academic achievement test scores are compatible with our identification criteria. I am also working with the Gateway and Central Baptist schools.

"The classes will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Monday through Friday, June 8-19, at GCHS North. All teachers to be used are currently employed by our district. Raymond Grinter, director of the Area Service Center, and I will serve as administrators for the program."

"The course content includes photography, computers, astronomy, science experiments, Spanish, German, rocketry, problem solving, critical thinking and creative writing."

"The subject matter will be unlike the regular, school-year curriculum and will be qualitatively differentiated to meet the higher cognition capabilities of gifted students."

"Enrollment will be confirmed on a first come, first served basis. Since the program depends on a cost-recovery system, sufficient enrollment must be attained for each class to be held. The average class size must be 15 students."

"Each student will pay tuition of $40 for two 90-minute classes for ten mornings, to pay for teachers' salaries and consumable materials. Transportation will be by the respective parents."

South to present 'Guys and Dolls'

South High School's annual spring musical is just about ready for performance. This year's choice, Guys and Dolls, by Frank Loesser was one of Broadway's greatest hits of the 50s.

Described as a musical fable of Broadway, Guys and Dolls, is a lively human portrait of Broadway—big and little shot gamblers, Salvation Army workers, nightclub entertainers, and an interesting variety of jerks and eccentrics. The play is based on the works of Damon Runyon and won many awards when first produced.

Dart boards durable Dart organizations and serious players of the game favor boards made of tightly packed bristles, usually bomp, mounted on a durable backing. Such boards are virtually indestructible, no matter how much they are used. The earliest dart boards were usually made of elm.
